TEN DEAD IN TENEMENT INFERNO

Explosion of Still Starts Holacaust; Many Leap From Death Trap

CHICAGO, June 21.—Ten men, women and children are known to have been burned to death, several others are missing and are believed to have perished and fifteen or more others were injured by leaping from flaming windows early today when a moonshine still exploded and sent fire racing through a tenement house here. Most of the identified victims are negroes. The building also housed several white families.

Nine bodies had been removed to the county morgue shortly after the blast sent the district into horrified hysteria. Frantic residents besieged the building in efforts to identify the bodies.

The body of Lucy Wright, 27, was recovered early from the ruins of the second floor and identified.

Screaming Victims

Screams and moans of the victims filled the air as they fought to flee the burning cauldron. Relatives of residents in the house, summoned by terrified friends, swarmed to the scene.

One man is under arrest and is held for questioning by state authorities, who suspect him of having manufactured moonshine whiskey in the building. He is Joseph Smith, a second-hand furniture dealer, who occupied a store room on the first floor of the building, the upper stories of which were cut into 24 flats. The explosion occurred in the basement.

The roar of the blast probably prevented the death toll from mounting higher. Pedestrians passing heard the crash as did policemen on beats in the neighborhood. An alarm was quickly sounded.

Save Children

Two police sergeants in the vicinity rushed into the inferno and carried half a dozen children from the structure, wrapping them in blankets to protect them. Chauffeurs of a big downtown taxicab company also rushed into the building and did effective rescue work.

The rapidity with which the flames licked the flimsy walls of the structure was terrifying. According to the firemen and police, about 160 persons were quartered in the building.

"When they awakened," said Battalion Chief Joseph Smith, "they found themselves facing a wall of flame. In a few minutes the blaze had swept into every section of the building and the walls were crumbling like egg shells."

Those who died in the flames were trapped. Many others, getting to the windows, leaped to escape the raging furnace before firemen could reach them.

Hunt Mountain Lair Of Barefoot Burglar

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., June 21.—The mountains near La Honda were being searched today for the cave from which the "barefoot" burglar fared forth to loot the homes of the millionaire residents of Hillsborough and Woodside. He lies unidentified in the morgue here, having met his nemesis when he invaded the home of James Folger, millionaire coffee importer, the latter shooting him as he fled the house.

In this mountain lair, it is expected thousands of dollars' worth of loot will be found cached, and in the loot the solution of a score of big robberies. Advices to the authorities from Santa Barbara indicate the robber may have been the same who all winter terrorized wealthy residents of that section by his depredations.

Divorce News Surprise To Strangler's Wife

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 21.—Surprise was expressed by Dr. Ada Scott Morton Fredericks today at reports that her husband. "Strangler" Ed Lewis, heavy weight wrestling champion, had obtained a divorce at Stevens Point, Wis. The wrestler, known as Robert Fredericks in private life and as "Bobbie" in the family circle here, married his physician wife in 1919 after a romantic meeting on a train.

MAY NEGOTIATE

LONDON, June 21.—Reports were current in diplomatic circles today that Germany has opened reparation negotiations with France through Switzerland. It is thought the exchanges already have taken place regarding the Ruhr angle of the reparations problem.

RELIEF PROMISED

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Relief from the intense heat overspreading most of the country east of the Mississippi river is promised for this evening by the United States weather bureau.

New Standard Oil Head In New York

Herbert L. Pratt

Herbert L. Pratt, senior vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of New York for the past twelve years, has succeeded to the presidency of the corporation. He also is president of a large department store, trustee of the Bankers' Trust Co., and Pratt Institute.

MOUNT ETNA LAVA FLOW SUBSIDES

Worst Period of Volcanic Eruption Is Now Past, Experts Believe

CATANIA, Italy, June 21.—Eruption of Mount Etna continued today but the flow of lava is slower and hopes are rising that the worst is past. Evacuation of gases and lava from the volcano are believed to have reduced the danger of earthquake to a minimum.

Mount Vesuvius is showing less danger of joining Etna in active eruption. Professor Defiore, an authority on volcanos, said the activity of Vesuvius is in no way related to the eruption of Etna. He terms the activity of Vesuvius as "casual."

All ranks have united in caring for the 100,000 persons driven from their homes by the eruption of Etna. King Victor Emanuel is active in this work.

U. S. Envoy to Aid

Premier Benito Mussolini is expected to reach here today and it is understood that Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy, will arrive tomorrow.

An international fund may be raised for the relief of the vast numbers of homeless families who lost their life possessions in the deluge of lava.

Contrary to reports yesterday, the town of Linguaglossa has not been destroyed, but is menaced on three sides.

Showers of white volcanic sand are covering the countryside, indicating that the force of the eruption is now rapidly being spent.

The land stream has now reached flat country and this morning was advancing at the rate of but sixty feet an hour. The intense heat is shriveling up trees and vineyards.

Town Is Submerged

Cassazza has been completely submerged. While Linguaglossa still stands, it is like an island, almost surrounded by lava. It has been evacuated save for soldiers and priests.

Thousands of tourists are pouring into Sicily. The United States cruiser Pittsburgh is coming for relief duty.

At latest reports the main stream of lava was flowing towards the river Alcantre, which may divert it into the sea. Residents of the village of Montenero took refuge on the roofs when the place was surrounded by lava. They cannot be reached and their lives depend on whether they can withstand the fumes from the molten river.

Two Curb Operators Dropped by Governors

NEW YORK, June 21.—The board of governors of the New York curb market today suspended A. B. Morley for one year and Benjamin Alexander as a regular member. Both suspensions were for violations of the curb's constitution governing trading.

PERISH IN FLOODS

TOKYO, June 21.—Indications today were that the death toll from floods sweeping Japan will reach a score. Eight were killed in a landslide at Moji. Mainland railroad service to Kyushu has been suspended. Fifteen hundred homes are under water at Shimonoseki and 500 at Takamatsu. Torrential downpours caused the flood.

BOND THEFT SUSPECTS CAUGHT

Six Arrests for Stealing $150,000 in Bonds End Three Months' Hunt

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Following the arrest of six persons, two of them women, in a raid on a house in Aliso street, police today believed they had captured the bandit gang who last February 13, held up and robbed a First National Bank mail car of $150,000 in bonds and murdered Sam McGee, chauffeur. Though it was announced by the police that the roundup was complete, all details of the case were not revealed.

The persons arrested gave their names as: Andres Jamille, 33; Augustine Sierra, 40; Mrs. Amelia Sierra; Mrs. Portia Jamille; Cayetano Belendez, 32, and Frank F. Bernard, 30. They are specifically charged with having received stolen property, but other charges are expected to be placed against them after their questioning has been completed.

Account For Bonds

The undoing of the scheme was brought about by Assistant Captain Tom O'Brien and Detective Lieutenant Harry Raymond who for several weeks "traveled" with the gang as "one of them," gathering all evidence possible. Last night officers attempted to negotiate a deal for $32,000 worth of the bonds and as the deal was being put through the police swooped down on the place and made the arrests. After a check was made it was stated by the police that practically all the stolen bonds had been recovered or accounted for.

The Fidelity Deposit Company of Maryland, a protective agency, is said to have furnished the first information that led to action in the case.

During their association with the band the officers are said to have lived with them at San Diego, Tiajuana, Murrietta Hot Springs and other places where they made merry with them and danced with the women members of the clique.

Kiling Recalled

The robbery took place when McGee, an old employe of the bank and two other bank employes were returning from the postoffice with the mail pouch containing the bonds. The two men besides were heavily armed.

When the bank machine reached Fourth and Wall streets the bandit car carrying three men drew alongside McGee and commanded him to stop. He refused and several shots came from the bandit machine, killing McGee instantly. One of the robbers then snatched the mail pouch and with his friends fled while pedestrians looked on in horror. Grover Mellus, a shopowner near where the shooting took place was wounded by a stray bullet.

Confessions of the robbery and shooting were expected to be wrung from the arrested persons today, the police said.

Alaska's Gold Output Runs Into Millions

NOME, Alaska, June 21.—The gold days of Alaska are far from over. Mining activities in and around Nome are exceeding those of the rush days, and millions of dollars' worth of the yellow dust will be taken out during the brief season.

F. H. Knickerbocker, head of the Alaska Steamship company, announced before returning to Seattle on the Victoria that the vessel would endeavor to make three more trips this season. Fall weather permitting, the last sailing will be from Nome November 4, in order to permit dredge operators to send out their last "clean-up" of the season.

Would Make Shippers Care for Immigrants

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A movement to compel steamship companies to maintain immigration stations in all leading American ports was launched today by Commissioner General of Immigration W. W. Hubbard, in answer to criticism in the British parliament on the treatment of British subjects of Ellis island.

If successful, the government will abandon Ellis island in New York harbor, Angel island at San Francisco, and other immigration stations in Philadelphia, Boston, Seattle and New Orleans which are costing $1,000,000 a year for maintenance.

'Smiling Girl' Bandit Case to Grand Jury

CHICAGO, June 21.—With no direct evidence to connect him with the crime, preparations were being made today by police, nevertheless, to take the case of Fred Thompson, the man who posed as a woman, before the grand jury with a view to having him indicted for the murder of Richard C. Tesmer.

"Thompson's the 'smiling girl bandit' we've been after," said Chief of Detectives Hughes.

Motor Car Expert For Cabinet Place

J. Walter Drake

J. Walter Drake, Detroit, has been named assistant secretary of commerce. Drake is well known in legal circles and for many years was president and later chairman of the board of directors of the Hupp Motor Car company. He served as a gob in the navy during the Spanish war.

KILLING HEAT CONTINUES IN EAST

Many Die as Result of Hot Wave; Thousands Sleep In Public Parks

NEW YORK, June 21.—Killing heat continued to grip New York today. The mercury, which reached an official 95 yesterday—a figure which means 100 or more in the narrow downtown canyons and the packed lanes of the lower East Side—would again mount to record marks today, Weather Forecaster Starr predicted.

Eight are dead. Two score are prostrated. Thousands spent the night in the city's parks and squares, ordered left open by Mayor John F. Hylan. Ten thousand others slept all night on Coney Island beach, while the other beaches and the slopes along the Hudson were literally black with sweltering humanity.

The 95 figure of yesterday came within 2 degrees of breaking June heat records in New York—a 97 being registered on June 6, 1899.

19 Dead in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio., June 21.—With promises of cool breezes to temper the torrid weather, Ohio's toll of deaths due to the heat wave had mounted to nineteen. Eight had died in Cleveland; three in Cincinnati, and one each in Akron, Youngstown, Niles, Canton, Wellington, Piqua and Dayton.

Children Perish

BOSTON, Mass., June 21.—New England today continued to suffer beneath a record torrid wave. Eight persons have succumbed directly to heat and eight more lost their lives seeking relief on the lakes and at the seashore. Four Springfield children were drowned. The official temperature at Boston at 7 a. m. was 98 degrees.

Heat Wave Grows

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Three are dead from heat here. The thermometer, steadily climbing this morning, was expected to surpass yesterday's 96 degrees, the hotest June day in years.

Thirteen Are Dead

CHICAGO, June 21.—Partly clouded skies and the possibility of local thunder storms promised to prevent the mercury from making this the hottest, as well as the longest day of the year. The present heat wave has resulted in thirteen deaths in two days.

Students in Plot to Wreck Government

BUDAPEST, June 21.—Twelve students have been arrested by the police during the past twenty-four hours, charged with plotting the overthrow of the Hungarian government. It is reported that documents found today showed a conspiracy to attempt to set up an economic dictatorship.

BRIDE GETS BIBLE

TOKYO, June 21.—A beautiful and expensive Bible will be the gift of 200,000 Japanese Christians to the Prince Regent and his bride when they are married late this fall, it was announced today.

MENACED BY FIRE

ELKTON, Md., June 21.—Fire broke out here this afternoon, threatening to destroy the entire business section. Appeals for assistance were sent to Wilmington, Del., and to Newark, Del.

OPEN FIGHT FOR WORLD TRIBUNAL

Harding to Carry Fight to People of America in Western Trip

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

ABOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, June 21.—With Washington and its worries behind him and 15,000 miles of open road ahead, President Harding prepared today to carry his international court fight "to the people."

Undismayed by the array of strength against him in the senate, estimated by Senator James E. Watson, Republican, of Indiana, to now aggregate nearly one-third of its membership, the president will open his long speaking tour in St. Louis tonight with a vigorous re-affirmation of his faith in the court and his determination to put America into it if possible.

The president deliberately chose to begin his battle for the court in territory that presumably is hostile to the pact.

Enemy's Territory

Missouri is the home of Senator Jim Reed, Democrat, whose record of irreconcilibility to any form of European entanglement was endorsed by the Missouri electorate last November by sending him back to the senate last November.

Governor Arthur H. Hyde, although a Republican, is no less opposed to the world court, as evidenced in his letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, asking him to lead the senate fight against it. Governor Hyde said that 500,000 Missouri Republicans were against the president's proposal.

Before a great crowd in the Coliseum in St. Louis tonight, the president will answer his critics and emphasize to the Missourians the principal point made in his April speech in New York—that joining the court does not mean joining the League of Nations, under whose auspices the court was established. The president believes that once this point is driven home to the people much of the present opposition to the court will disappear.

Kansas City Next

The president will not tarry long in St. Louis. He is due to arrive there at 4 o'clock this afternoon (Central time) and will leave at midnight for Kansas City where he speaks tomorrow night. Governor Hyde, Mayor Kiel and a committee of 250 citizens will form a reception committee to meet the president.

From the station he will go to the Coliseum to greet members of the Rotary international convention and will later participate in the laying of a corner-stone at the City Club building. The president did not wait until St. Louis to inaugurate his speech-making. Late last night at Grifton, W. Va., he made the first of the innumerable rear-end talks that he will be called upon to make across the continent. A good sized crowd had gathered there and the president spoke a few minutes on general subjects.

H. A. Hannan Slightly Hurt in Auto Crash

A collision, which caused considerable excitement, occurred at 1130 o'clock this morning on Broadway just east of Brand boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hannan of 604 East Colorado street and their 4-year-old son, Melvin, were riding in a sedan which was backed into by an empty Harris & Hull truck driven by D. S. Oliver of 408 East Raleigh street.

The signal of the truck driver, who was obliged to back into the excavation for the new Security Trust & Savings bank, was misunderstood and before the truck could be stopped it had broken the door of the limousine next to the driver. Mr. Hannan received cuts on his knuckles from breaking glass and Mrs. Hannan was frightened but uninjured.

Branch Bank in L. A. Is Robbed of $3000

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Threatening death to two officials, three unmasked bandits shortly after noon today held up a branch bank of the Security Trust & Savings Bank at Florence and Moneta avenues, secured from $2500 to $3000 in cash, fired one shot into the counter of the bank and then escaped in an automobile. The bandits fled as quickly as they had appeared.

Proposes Legislation To Hit Bucket Shop

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Legislation to prohibit dealing in stocks, bonds and agricultural products by companies without financial backing adequate will be introduced in the next Congress, it was announced here this afternoon by Senator Dial, Democrat of South Carolina.

League's President In United States

Augustin Edwards

Augustin Edwards, Chilean ambassador to Great Britain and president of the League of Nations, is in the United States with his family. He believes American entry into the league should be decided by the people.

MAN IS SLAIN BY INFERNAL MACHINE

Manager of Ranch on Molokai, Honolulu, Is Murdered, Belief

HONOLULU, T. H., June 21.—Belief that E. E. Conant, manager of the Cooke Ranch on Molokai Island, and a native of Syracuse, N. Y., was assassinated by an infernal machine placed in his automobile which exploded when Conant stepped on the self-starter of the machine, was expressed by investigators who returned to Honolulu today after a hurried airplane flight to Molokai.

The evidence showed, the investigators said, that after an early breakfast, Conant went to the garage alone. The explosion occurred as soon as he attempted to start the car. The investigators noted on examination of the shattered car that gasoline was still in the carburetor and decided that explosion could not have originated in the fuel tank. It is believed dynamite or some other high explosive had been placed in the car. Conant had been in Hawaii forty-three years and had no known enemies.

Bandit Chieftain Is Slain During Fight

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 21.—General Miguel Aleman, bandit chieftain, who has been operating in the state of Vera Cruz, has been killed in a fight with Mexican cavalry, according to a telegram received by the Mexican consul-general here.

Aleman recently demanded one thousand pesos each from a group of sugar mill proprietors, threatening to burn fields of cane if his demands were not met. The sugar mill owners asked aid of the federal government and General Guadalupe Sanchez was sent to the area with 500 troops. Aleman and his followers were surprised and surrounded at the hacienda "La Rosa" and attempted to escape into the jungle. Among the bodies found after the battle was that of Aleman.

Double Personality Plea Saves Slayer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Bryant Youngman owes his life today to the strange case of dual personality disclosed at his trial for the murder of Ernest Engdahl, in a jewelry store holdup. After eighteen hours' deliberation, the jury found him guilty of second-degree murder instead of first, the penalty demanded by the state. Jurors gave consideration to the dual personality plea. Youngman comes from a good family in Omaha, Neb.

Nurses Claim Doctor 'Peeped' at Garters

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 21.—A sweeping grand jury investigation of affairs at the Sacramento county hospital was ordered today, following charges filed by thirty-two student nurses against Dr. H. E. Morrison, head of the institution, including "garter peeping," frequent kissing and other activities unbecoming a medical superintendent. Dr. Morrison, 50, and married, denies the charges, admitting he kissed one of the girls, but "only in a spirit of fun."

FEDERAL COMMERCIAL AND SAVINGS BANK WILL OPEN DOORS HERE ON AUGUST 1

Charles C. Cooper and Jesse V. Rea Make Announcement Of New Institution at Corner Of Brand and Wilson

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the organization of the Federal Commercial & Savings Bank of Glendale, to be located at the southeast corner of Wilson avenue and Brand boulevard in the Logan block, 144 North Brand boulevard. This latest financial institution will open its doors on August 1, according to Charles C. Cooper, former president of the old First National bank here, and Jesse V. Rea, former owner and active vice president of the First National bank of Colton. They are the organizers.

The new bank will have a quarter of a million dollars' capital, with a paid up capital of $100,000, the charter having already been secured from the state banking commission. Temporary offices have been established at 124 North Brand boulevard.

Mr. Cooper is well known in Glendale, having been associated with several enterprises, including the organization of the Rotary club, and he has taken a keen interest in civic enterprise, serving as a director of the Chamber of Commerce when it was first reorganized. He resides at 302 North Central avenue.

Mr. Rea is comparatively a newcomer, living at 1231 South Orange street. He managed the bank at Coton very successfully and looks to Glendale for the opportunity of larger endeavor. He is enthusiastic about the city, stating:

Local Institution

"We expect to place the stock of this bank exclusively in Glendale. A limited amount has been reserved in order to have at least 100 residents interested in our organization.

"Yes," said Mr. Cooper, "a friend of mine in Hollywood wanted to buy some stock. The only consideration I would grant that request is for him to move to Glendale. We are going to have a strictly local institution conducted on a large scale."

Announcement of the board of directors and officers will be made in a few days, it is stated, as soon as all desiring to affiliate with the organization may be informed of the plans.

Refugees Present Deplorable Picture

HONOLULU, June 21.—Ragged and tattered, yet still presenting a poverty-dimmed picture of the Russia that was, 525 survivors of the ill-fated fleet of Admiral Stark are here today preparing to begin the last lap of their journey toward the United States—and freedom.

The refugees presented a deplorable picture of abject poverty as the United States army transport Merritt steamed into the harbor, and the local Red Cross immediately endeavored to provide them with badly-needed clothing.

"We have butchers, bakers, architects, engineers, doctors, lawyers and even one priest in the party, and do not propose to become a burden to the people of the United States," Lieutenant General T. H. Khouskenon, successor to Admiral Stark, who remained in Manila, as commanding officer, declared today.

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Mrs. Genevieve Paddleford, wanted here on a charge of grand larceny was being sought today, following her failure to appear in the Superior court yesterday to answer to the charge.

U. S. TO SEIZE ALL LIQUOR ON SHIPS

Booze on Incoming Foreign Vessels to Be Taken, Officials Decide

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Regulations were drafted at the Treasury Department this afternoon ordering customs officials to seize all liquor on incoming foreign vessels other than that certified for medicinal purposes.

The orders were drawn at a conference between Secretary Mellon, prohibition officials and representatives of the States Department, who had met to determine what action would be taken in regard to the sealed liquor stores which the steamer Olympic is bringing to the United States from England next week.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Moss, in charge of prohibition matters, announced flatly that the liquor on the Olympic would be seized despite the British customs seals.

The law must be enforced, said Moss, commenting on the decision of the treasury to seize the Olympic's liquor supply that is not intended for medicinal purposes.

Expected to Do Duty

"Customs officers will be expected to do their duty. There is no other course that the government can follow except seizure of beverage liquors unlawfully held and transported," he declared.

Instructions were sent to New York customs officials that the regulations will be effective at once. While the liquor on the Olympic, which had been brought to the attention of the state and treasury departments in a cable from American Consul General Skinner at London was the principal subject of today's meeting, the first test of the new order is expected in New York tomorrow, where the Cunard liner Berengaria, is expected to arrive with liquor sealed by British customs authorities. This liquor was said to be for use of the ship's passengers on the return voyage to England.

Far-Reaching Order

The orders are general and far-reaching in scope, stating that beverage liquor on all foreign vessels must be seized as violation of the Volstead law and the recent dry sea ruling of the supreme court.

Treasury officials said they were fully advised over the circumstances of the Berengaria. Customs officers will go aboard the ship and will seize all liquors which are not held in the custody of the ship's surgeon for medicinal purposes.

Select Directors for New Hotel; Building Starts Soon

DIRECTORS were named last night for the new $500,000 hotel corporation at a meeting of stockholders held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Mattison B. Jones presided and J. B. Burn served as secretary. The nominations were made by A. T. Cowan and seconded by Godfrey Edwards and Ella W. Richardson, as follows:

Dr. E. H. Parker, J. A. Endicott, R. F. Kitterman, D. H. Smith, J. B. Burn, Mattison B. Jones and Henry C. Jensen. The board will organize as soon as incorporation is completed and the meeting last night instructed the law firm of Jones, Wilson & Stephenson to proceed forthwith.

Attorney Jones stated the incorporation papers would be at the office of Judge Harry W. Chase in the Rudy block by 6 o'clock this evening in order for the directors to qualify. His firm will take all steps necessary for the selling of stock, $129,500 already having been subscribed.

There will be 5000 shares at $100 per share, according to Mr. Jones, chairman of the finance committee. Approximately $300,000 is necessary for the building which already has been described in the columns of The Glendale Evening News, although no architect will be obtained until organization is completed.

The board of directors are enthusiastic about bringing the project to early completion and several were querulous if the building could be erected and furnished by the first of November or December. It will be an imposing addition to North Brand boulevard, being located on the corner of California avenue within two blocks of the theatre and shopping center of the city.

Home Wedding

At a beautiful home wedding, the marriage of Miss Murle Bowen and S. Edward Clauson, of Upland was solemnized Wednesday night, June 20, 1923 at 8 o'clock, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bowen, 212 West Garfield.

The living room and dining room were bowers of greenery, festoons of feathery plumosis being hung from the chandeliers to the corners with beautiful bouquets of roses and carnations on piano and tables. The arch over the improvised altar before the fireplace was of plumosis intertwined with white carnations and an American flag at each side was a recognition of the fact that the bride was color bearer for the W. R. C. for two years. Before the low altar rail of greenery a white satin cushion was placed on which the bridal couple knelt.

In the west room adjoining were displayed the many gifts received by these popular young people, not only from Glendale but from friends and relatives in Canada, Boston, St. Paul and elsewhere, silver, linen, pictures, china and glass ware.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Emily Kopp sang "I Love you Truly" (Bond), accompanied by Miss Edna Orcott, of Eagle Rock who also played the Mendelssohn Wedding March and for the bridal procession "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin.

Dr. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church officiated using the ring ceremony.

The bride, a beautiful brunette, was most charmingly gowned in white crepe de chine with tulle veil caught with a wreath of natural orange blossoms and a jeweled bandeau across the forehead, and carrying a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and rose with maiden hair fern. The pearls worn by the bride were the gift of the groom and her handkerchief was her mother's wedding handkerchief.

Miss Alta Bowen, the bridesmaid was lovely in pink with an arm bouuet of pink sweet peas.

The bride's mother Mrs. C. A. Bowen, was most becomingly gowned in orchid and gray and wore the white slippers she had worn at her own wedding.

To the strains of the wedding march, the groom and his best man Herbert Alexander, of Pasadena, took their places at the altar where they were joined by the bride on the arm of her father and attended by her sister.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Alta Bowen to the best man Herbert Alexander last week added to the interest in th bridal party.

Following congratulations a collation of cake and ice cream in wedding bell design was served to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Clauson after a short wedding tour will reside on Mr. Clauson's ranch at Upland.

Guests present at the wedding were, Miss M. M. Martin, a great aunt of the bride, Little Rock, California, Miss Alta Bowen, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Watson, Redlands, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Orcott, Miss Edna Orcott, Eagle Rock, Herbert Alexander, Pasadena, Mrs. Jennie Tincher, Miss Bessie Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Goldwaith, Barbara Goldwath, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dilley, Pauline Dilley, Dr. and Mrs. V. Hunter Brink.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Harrison, Donhold Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. M. Franklin Shinner, Franklin Shinner, Miss Julia Goodsell, Miss Emily Kopp, Miss Mary Ostergard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Prouty, Frank and Roy Prouty, Mrs. A. Ostergard and Alvan Hall.

Birthday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Chobe entertained last Tuesday evening at their home, 2301 Sierra avenue, with a birthday dinner complimenting Mrs. Charles E. Stanley, with only immediate members of the family present.

The rooms were decorated in a white and gold color scheme with carnations and French marigolds used in profusion. Shasta daisies intertwined with long graceful sprays of fern artistically decorated the chandelier above the dinner table. Artistic arrangements of flowers were placed in the corners of the rooms, and a beautiful birthday cake decorated in yellow and white formed the centerpiece for the dinner table.

Mrs. Stanley was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts from her many friends, including cards and flowers.

PHONE EMPLOYES STUDY FIRST AID

Local Plant Force Attends Lecture Given by Company Teacher

The First-Aid School of the Glendale district, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, held its second weekly session at 7 o'clock last night, in the terminal room of the Glendale exchange, under the instructorship of D. A. McMillan, central office repairman, who in turn received his instruction from the district school recently held in Los Angeles, under supervision of J. R. Jackson.

"Approximately the entire local plant force is taking this course, each man realizing the importance of first-aid study," says Mr. McMillan, "especially those who each day are exposed to the dangerous and hazardous work encountered in telephone construction."

The idea of the First-Aid School originated in San Francisco, where some months ago the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company established a divisional school, realizing the importance of first-aid treatment in such a business as telephone construction and service maintenance.

STORE BUILDING WILL BE ERECTED

Site at Corner of Orange And Wilson to Have Modern Structure

Within ten days, work will start on the erection of a one-story business block on the southeast corner of Wilson avenue and Orange street, immediately behind the Lawson building now nearing completion, announces John B. Tate of the Burton Realty company.

The building will be of brick construction and will contain six small stores fronting on Wilson avenue and one on Orange street. They will rent at very reasonable figures, Mr. Tate says, the construction being such that the rooms may be arranged to suit the tenants, without disturbing the exterior.

The new block will front 84 feet on Wilson avenue and 50 feet on Orange street.

Mother Graduates With Her Daughter

Mrs. Martha M. Hubbs and her daughter, Theresa

MOLINE, Ill., June 21.—A mother and her daughter will be graduated from the East Moline, Ill., high school together, and are planning to continue their education at the University of Wisconsin.

Re-entering high school thirty years after she had been forced to abandon her book learning, Mrs. Martha M. Hubbs, mother of nine children, has earned the necessary number of credits in two years and will be graduated from the East Moline township high school on June 8.

In the same class is her daughter, Theresa, aged 17. Mother and daughter have been classmates during their junior and senior years, and they are real pals.

Mrs. Hubbs has already enrolled in the university extension department and hopes to attend with her daughter next fall. Theresa, however, aspires to become an actress.

During the thirty years' recess, from 1891 to 1921, Mrs. Hubbs has managed to find time each day for study ever looking forward to the day when she would be able to go back and complete the high school course at least.

In the early years of motherhood it seemed that her dream was not to be realized. Fate had placed every obstacle in her way. The children came, nine of them. Four died. Funeral expenses ate a big hole in the family's savings. Then her husband became incapacitated and remained an invalid. The responsibilities of chief breadwinner were shifted to the mother. She did not falter, she did not lose faith, nor did she surrender her ambition to acquire an education.

CHIEF POSITION GIVEN TO BIBLE

Educational Convention of Seventh-Day Adventists Comes to Close

Editor The Evening News—The national educational convention of the Seventh-day Adventists, which has just closed at Colorado Springs, Col., showed that this body stands strongly for an educational system which includes training of the heart as well as of the head and the hand. The Adventists give to the Bible the chief place among educational text books, contending that a knowledge of the Creator is of more importance than a knowledge of the works of man. To a large extent they discard the study of the classics because of their pagan origin, and no book by an infidel author can have a place in their school text books or libraries. Books teaching the Darwinian theory that mankind has been evolved from beasts, are strictly taboo with them.

The three leading colleges of the Adventists in this country, are located at St. Helena, Cal., Berrien Springs, Mich., and Takoma Park, D. C. These schools have solved the problem of maintaining a college on a paying basis without an endowment, by conducting an extensive agricultural business with student labor. As much as $50,000 a year is paid by some of them to their students for such work. Student labor is also used in the erection of the college buildings. Many of the students pay a large part of their expenses in this way. The Adventists say they believe the public schools to be excellent for providing a secular education, but that these schools cannot give religious teaching without making religion an affair of the state, which would be contrary to American principles of government.

Point to Evidence

As showing the importance of an education which will implant Christian principles in the hearts of the rising generation, they point to the political and industrial strife which fills the world today, all of which, they say, arises from no natural necessity and would disappear overnight if men could everywhere experience a change of heart. Of what use is it, they ask, for men to become so proficient in a knowledge of the arts and sciences, if the nations, moved by hate, jealousy, greed, revenge, or selfish ambition, make use of the latest products of such knowledge to exterminate each other and perhaps wreck civilization itself. They say the world is becoming spiritually bankrupt, and that no world courts, leagues, treaties, or legislation that may be passed will suffice to rescue the nations from their present condition of distress and perplexity, unless the spirit of peace and good will is established in the hearts of men by Christian education. The gap between the educational ideas and institutions of this religious body and those of the world generally, seems to be widening with the passing of time.

Audience Is Delighted With Music Program

Pupils of Alberta M. Green presented a most talented program last night tin the Chamber of Commerce hall. A large crowd greeted the participants and expressed appreciation of the work of the pupils and instructor.

Miss Green is associate teacher with Vernon Spencer of Los Angeles, who appeared on the program, giving demonstrations of theory, technique, pedal work and scientific memorizing.

One of the feature numbers of the program was the rendition of Suite E Flat Major on two pianos by Mrs. Minnie West McDonald and Gilmour McDonald, pupils of Mr. Spencer.

City Official Shows String of Big Fish

V. A. Stone, assistant city engineer, is showing his friends a group of snapshots taken recently while he was vacationing on the shores of Big Bear lake. Fish, big, fat rainbow trout, are very conspicuous. Mr. Stone insists that none of them were stuffed. He says that he caught thirty-three enlarged minnows—weighing a total of seventy-five pounds. He added fishermen going to Bartlett's should be sure to look up Walter Hoefner, former resident of Glendale, who knows all the fish in the vicinity by their first names.

Denby Outlines Navy 1924 Building Program

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The navy's building program for next year will call for construction of eight cruisers, four river gunboats and three cruiser submarines, Secretary Denby announced late yesterday.

Recommendation for construction of these vessels, all permissible under the Washington arms conference articles, will be presented to the Budget Bureau and Congress, Denby said.

Three Boys Drowned When Rowboat Sinks

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 21.—Fighting desperately in a sinking rowboat in the swift black waters of the Susquehanna river near Appalachian, three boys lost their lives and a fourth managed to swim ashore yesterday afternoon. The dead are Harold Wells, twenty; Walter Wells, seventeen, and Paul Cassidy, twelve. Wayne Cassidy, a survivor, said the boat sprung a leak in midstream.

One Man, Non-Stop Flight Is Planned

SAN DIEGO, June 21.—The one-man non-stop flight from San Diego to New York will be attempted in July or August, according to reports at Rockwell Field yesterday. A high-speed plane will be used.

The plane will be so constructed as to insure warmth for the pilot, enabling him to fly above the 20,000-feet altitude where the earth's rotation sets up west to east winds of high velocity, it was said. Army air officers hope the 2,600-mile flight can be made in less than twenty hours.

Federal Regulation Of Business Scored

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Scoring the present tendency of the United States government toward regulation of business, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri yesterday declared that such regulation "has no business in the policy of a free government over a free people."

"Invariably," Reed said, "political 'lame ducks' or persons barred by personal failure from making a success of business compose the boards which set about to regulate the business built up by the best brains in the country."

'Law Abiding Condition' Draws Wobbly Protest

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—Protests against the conditions laid down by President Harding yesterday in commuting the sentences of political prisoners in the Chicago and Wichita espionage cases reached the White House this afternoon from the general defense committee representing the I. W. W. The principal objection was made to the condition that the former prisoners must remain law-abiding to keep from being sent back to the penitentiary to serve the remainder of their sentences.

Film Star Must Tell Financial Situation

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Jean Acker, former wife of Rudolp Valentino, will be required to appear tomorrow before Judge York and explain her financial situation or settle for a judgment of $492 obtained against her, a citation having been issued in the case at the instance of Fred Booth, who holds the judgment, obtained on account of merchandise said to have been purchased in New York.

Committee Working to Boost Service Funds

Letters are being sent out by the ways and means committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce that was appointed by the directors this week and that consists of D. H. Smith, R. F. Kitterman, Herman Nelson, Dan Campbell and A. R. Eastman, thanking those who subscribed to the service fund that was started during the recent expansion campaign for their contributions and also to other organizations and individuals who have not had an opportunity to subscribe, asking that they lend their support to the movement to advertise Glendale. All of the money subscribed to this fund will be devoted to advertising the city, and a definite plan of action will be worked out by the budget and the advertising committees to spend the money in such a fashion as to produce results.

Takes Huge Dose of Poison, Found Dead

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—Swallowing enough poison to kill a score of men, J. H. Marshall, forty-five, committed suicide yesterday in a rooming house in East First street. The body was discovered by a chambermaid within a half hour after Marshall had entered the room.

GIBBONS IS FIT FOR TITLE BOUT

Challenger Is Trained Down Fine for Battle With Heavyweight King

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

SHELBY, Mont., June 21.—He may fail, financially and physically, to wrest the elusive greenback from Shelby's depleted resources and the heavyweight title from Jack Dempsey July 4. He may even be counted out for the total of ten, but whatever may happen to Tom Gibbons on the afternoon in question, his effort must of necessity go down on the books as that of a man trained to the split second.

Gibbons will be as physically fit as human flesh can hope to be. He is at once the mystery and the pride of this forsaken town, which alternately chokes in clouds of dust and wallows in mire, ankle deep, as it attempts to laugh off the dream plan that caused it to bid for the championship bout.

Gibbons is the pride, because, as a man, he is one of the most popular individuals this side of the Mississippi. He is the mystery, because, as a fighter, no human eye can forecast whether he will be able to stand up under the socking that Dempsey is disposed to visit upon his victims.

Ready to Gamble

Shelby would be pleased to know just how Gibbons' perfectly attuned anatomy will react to the Dempsey attack. It is more than casually interested, in view of the fact that it would like to take some of the short end money, if it could only be certain that bucks tossed upon the waters would return home within a short time.

It will have had a sufficiency of gambling on long shots, such as promoting prize fights for the sake of showing the country at large what a Montana sport will do when his soul craves action.

Gibbons Dangerous

The town is pro-Gibbons to the point of being downright zealous about it, but the interest in the challenger to date has been purely sentimental. It knows him as an affable, well disposed young man with the color of a milkmaid and the clear, cool eye of a man who knows that his wellbeing is beyond suspicion. It knows him as a fighter whose speed is such that even Dempsey may have trouble in reaching him, and whose punch is sufficiently ponderous to ruin the first jaw it happens to meet. Yet its uncertainty seems to be most natural.

The writer has watched Gibbons with considerable care in his daily workouts, and can do no less than say that they are impressive. He seems to have everything, including the will to win, but Dempsey is Dempsey. It is no simple matter to pick a man to finish second who has won some forty of his fifty-seven fights by knockouts. We, at any rate, will not attempt to do so. Our only contribution to the general testimony, for and against, is that statements to the effect that the champion will cakewalk are like the well-known fallen arch—too flat to stand up.

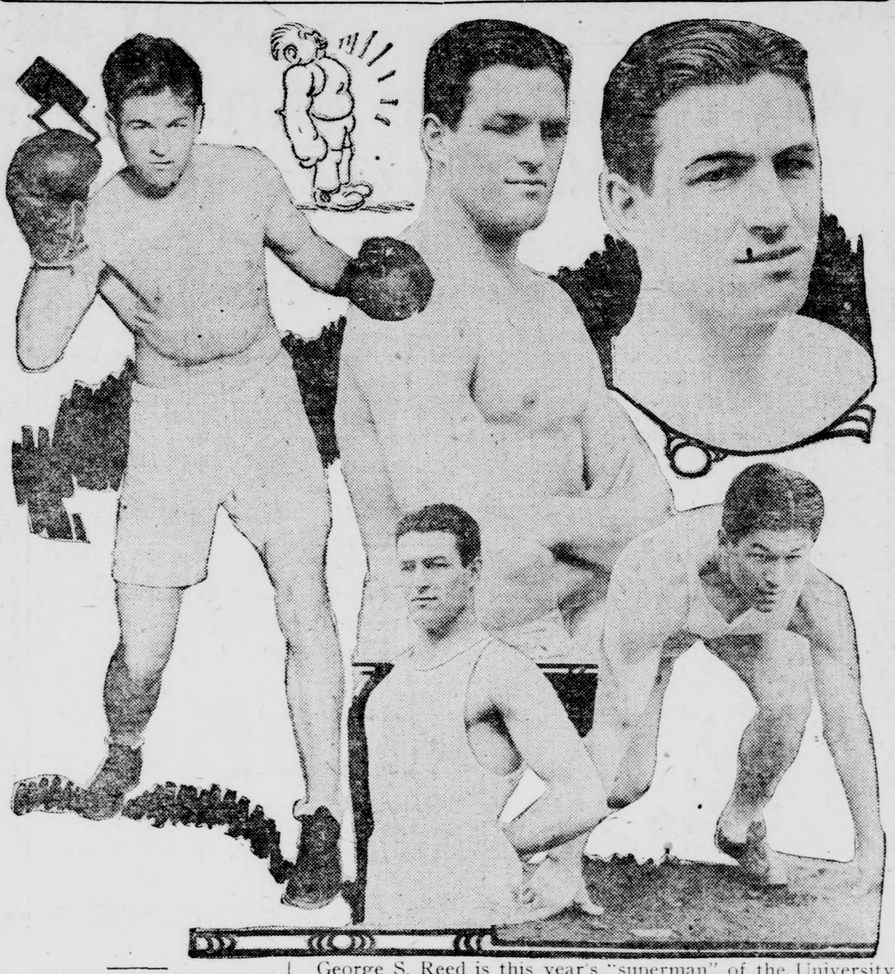
Benjamin-Harper In Hard Hitting Go

PORTLAND, Ore., June 21.—Joe Benjamin, handsome lightweight title aspirant and sparring partner in Jack Dempsey's camp, boxed a slashing, hard-hitting, ten-round draw against Bobby Harper here last night before more than 4000 fans.

Harper, stunned and staggered by hard punches in the second and third rounds, retaliated with crunching smashes to Benjamin's jaw and body in the three succeeding rounds. Benjamin tried hard for a knockout in the final rounds, but Harper was game and even shaded his opponent in the tenth. It was a fight every round.

Joe Powell, husky Californian, knocked out Eddie Shannon in two rounds. Bud Stengel and Benny Dolson boxed a draw and Sammy Gorbank knocked out Johnny Drexel of San Jose in the sixth round. The curtain raiser was a draw between Jack O'Keefe and Billy Lane.

This Year's University California 'Superman'



George S. Reed is this year's "superman" of the University of California at Berkeley. He is farm bred and shakes a mean hoof on the track, wields a wicked mitt in the ring, runs and jumps with the best of 'em and studies law besides.

STUDENT OF LAW IS STAR ATHLETE

Attained Physical Prowess By Boyish Experiences On Farm, He Says

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—While the study of law does not draw the bright spotlight of publicity which participation in athletics does, nevertheless it is an embryo attorney who is rated this year as the "superman" of the University of California at Berkeley.

George S. Reed, farm bred and ranking among the highest in the academic classes of the university, won the title in a hot contest in which he defeated star football men and track athletes in athletic contests for the honor.

Reed shakes a mean hoof on the cinder track, wields a wicked mitt in a squared ring, jumps like a kangaroo and swims like a fish. He demonstrated these all-around abilities in winning the title of superman recently.

"Reed is an excellent example of perfect physical manhood and high mental ability," said Prof. F. L. Kellburger, head of the University of California physical education department, in commenting on the law student's victory.

"He is all the better in his legal studies because of the high standard of his physical condition."

In winning, Reed, who is six feet one inch tall, weighing 178 pounds, and proportioned after the contours of an athlete of ancient Greece, made a perfect score in all of the events and lowered all previous records for the "superman test." He won in boxing, the 100-yard dash, broad jump, twenty-yard swimming sprint and fifteen-yard rescue swimming event.

He attributes his success to his country training.

"I learned to swim in the old swimmin' hole, to box through scuffling with the boys in the neighborhood, to run by chasing the old cow down the lane to pasture, and to jump by leaping fences on the farm," he laughed.

Essex and Williams In Draw at Sunland

Kid Essex of Glendale and Kid Williams of Lankershim again battled to a draw, last night's fast four-round bout being staged at Twin Pines, Sunland.

Many who saw the fight agreed that Essex had it on the Lankershim "Peach" a shade or two, but a badly disabled right forearm prevented the Glendale puncher from landing anything good for ten counts of slumber.

It is understood that these two fast boxers are soon to meet in Lankershim, for their third engagement, when it is believed a decision will be reached.

Other bouts at Twin Pines last night included the following:

Roy Kelley kayoed Kid Herman in the third round.

Walter Dodge, of Glendale, kayoed Kid Galoway in the second.

Kid Carr, a Glendale Union High school student kayoed Cyclone Julio in the second.

Battling Gonzales and Irish Danny Krusman made it a draw.

The Athletics crept up on the Yanks by winning, 4 to 3, over the White Sox in the eleventh.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Verily some of the sports scribes are going out of their way to dig up something that will lend an element of chance to the Dempsey-Gibbons match which already has been accorded to Dempsey by an almost unanimous vote. Comes one chap now and announces that prior to his battle against Jack Johnson, Jim Jeffries did a lot of whipping of the trout streams down about Rowardennan where he was preparing for his abortive "comeback".

Now we are told Jack Dempsey is doing a lot of fishing. Hence lock out. The same thing may happen to him that happened to Jeff in that memorable Reno fight.

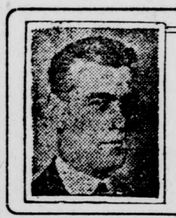
Any man who san see any similarity between the two situations should get out of the newspaper game and let his imagination take flight in the realms of fiction where he can make a lot more money. Jeffries had been out of the ring for a matter of nearly a decade and had, to all intent and purpose fought his last fight. He did not want to fight again and only went into the ring because of the urgings of the public and quite against his own better judgment.

Dempsey never has indicated that he would not fight. In fact he has been gunning for a fight and has declared right along that idleness was irksome to him. He has kept more or less active in various ways and while he may not be quite up to his prime, he is far from being the worn shell that Jeffries was.

Jack Johnson, Jeffries opponent, was at the height of his career and rated one of the greatest defensive fighters the ring had ever produced, as well as having a terrific punch. On the other hand, Gibbons is little more than a light heavyweight and a physicial comparison between him and Dempsey shows that everything is in favor of the champion.

Hence signs and auguries, rims on the moon, rabbit feet and other insignia of a highly spooky nature are not likely to affect the judgment of the public which is sitting back and simply wondering how many rounds Gibbons will last before he is sent down to investigate the warp and woof of the canvas stretched over the ring at Shelby.

A million dollar gate has been predicted by the promoters but there are many who are not so enthusiastically inclined. Shelby is a long ways out of the way for the big majority of fans and with the Firpo-Willard battle coming along a few days after in New York where folks can get to it in comfort is more than likely to have its effect, particularly as there is, at least some doubt in the minds of many as to who the ultimate winner will be.



SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Reports say that Dempsey is missing punches by feet in his training. There is no likelihood that this will tend to make Mr. Gibbons careless in his preparations.

It seems that those who are in charge of creating an interest in the Dempsey-Gibbons fight are missing no opportunity to send out anything that will tend to decrease Dempsey's chances and increase those of Gibbons in order to try to make things look more equal. At the rate they are going these publicists will have Gibbons putting on about thirty pounds and Dempsey entering the ring minus the use of an arm and a leg.

According to present plans racing will be resumed in Chicago at the Hawthorne track with a 25 days' meet beginning Saturday, June 30. C. W. Hay, Kentucky horseman and business man and presiding steward at the Latonia track, will preside at the Hawthorne meeting.

The policy pursued at the Hawthorne test meeting last fall again will be adopted with regard to betting. This means that open book-making will go by the boards, with the oralizers operating.

July 2 has been set for the first Grand Circuit 1923 meeting to be held at the North Randall track at Cleveland. The stake offerings total more than $17,000. This meet is held under the direction of the Forest City Livestock & Fair company.

Few players who break a leg or an arm bone in the early part of a season ever are any use to a baseball team for the remainder of that particular year. While Frank Wetzel, the Oakland outfielder who broke his leg several weeks ago again is out and doing a little light practice, it isn't likely that he will play his game, the one he has been capable of, during 1923. There is always a certain amount of timidity over the break and a player is likely to try to save the injured portion of his anatomy. This is fatal to the dashing and reckless style of game that insures success on the diamond. Particularly in sliding to bases is a man likely to be timid for the strain is a severe one on a perfectly good limb, let alone one that has been more or less weakened by disuse.

Ehmke of the Red Sox held the Browns to three hits and won his tenth game of the season, 1 to 0.

Slugging the ball for five runs in the final frame, the Giants won, 7 to 5, over the Cardinals.

GLENDALE MEETS LEAGUE LEADERS

Heidler's Players Are Eager To Give San Fernando Another Trimming

The Glendale nine takes on San Fernando, the Valley League leaders, this Sunday, June 24, on the home lot at Park avenue and San Fernado road. The game is to be called at 2:30 o'clock.

This is the feature game of the home season, states Manager Walt Heidler of the locals, San Fernando having lost but one game out of eight played, whereas Glendale, occupying second place in the league, has dropped three out of her nine contests.

"This one game the leaders lost is safely tucked away under our belt," says Walt, "and we want to scalp them again on Sunday, which we can do if we put up a similar exposition to the ball-playing that gave us our win over them in the first lap of the series."

That was a great game, the one to which Walt refers. He himself hurled for his team, allowing not a single hit. This Sunday he will take the mound again and feels confident he can hold them down once more, if his teammates will give him the same fine support accorded before.

Pitchers' Duel

Cecil Cruz will hurl for the visitors and a great pitching duel is expected. Should Glendale win Sunday's game, they will be within half a contest of first place.

For these reasons the biggest crowd of the season is expected—what is more, probably the greatest aggregation of ball fans ever assembled to witness a home game.

It will be a memorable contest and all eyes are on the local boys.

Pension Frauds Are Alleged by Indians

RENO, June 21.—Old Indian wars will be fought all over again in the minds of old Nevadans if Annie Joe Brown, Minnie Joe, Winnie Joe and Jim Washoe press their claims that they are descendants of Captain Joe, and prove that Captain Pete and Sarah Jim are impostors in collection of federal funds through the allegation that they are descendants of Washoe Indians who assisted the whites during an early Piute uprising.

In a letter to Governor J. G. Scrugham, the four members of the Joe family ask for a copy of the record of the uprising. They claim this record will prove that Captain Pete and Sarah Jim have no family connections with the Indians who loaned guns and ammunition to the whites during the Piute trouble.

Couple Remarry After 25 Years' Separation

ORANGE, Mass., June 21.—What is believed to be a record was made here by Mrs. George A. Drake, who was married twice to the same man by the same preacher the second ceremony coming thirty-eight years after the first.

The clergyman who performed both ceremonies is the Rev. I. P. Quimby, of Orange. In 1885 he married Miss Hattie A. Graces of Montague, to George A. Drake of Greenfield.

The couple were divorced April 25, 1898, and each married. With the passing of years Drake became a widower and his first wife a widow. The last marriage made the third time that Drake has been a bridegroom. He is 76 years old, while Mrs. Drake is 70. They will reside in Orange.

Broken Arm Fails to Halt Young Ball Fan

WATERLOO, Ia., June 21.—A little thing like a fractured arm doesn't prevent Arthur Lambert, 10-year-old son of Policeman James Lambert from seeing a ball game. Arthur fell when he was on his way to the Mississippi Valley league park here, but went to the baseball game although his arm "hurt a little."

After the young fan returned home, physicians discovered the fracture, and had some difficulty making the necessary adjustments.

Standard Oil Team Drops Game to Legion

The American Legion nine scored an 18 to 10 win over the Standard Oil team, in last night's game of the Twilight League baseball series, played on the Glendale Union High school grounds.

Tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, the City Employes battle the Postal Clerks, on the above grounds, announces R. Ernest Tucker, secretary of Community Service, under whose auspices the series is being run off.

Boston Teachers Are Immune to Love Dart

BOSTON, June 21.—Cupid's darts have failed to reach many Boston school teachers. There isn't a single June bride this year among the whole 3500 teachers. During the last year only fifty of them entered the bonds of matrimony.

Cheaper Meat Cuts High in Food Value

CHICAGO, June 21. — The cheaper cuts of meat contain just as many calories and even more vitamines than the porterhouse steaks which the inexperienced housewife buys, R. C. Pollock, managing director of the National Livestock and Meat Board, declared here, following his announcement that the board had completed arrangements to hold meat cutting demonstrations before different women's organizations in every large city.

"The forequarter cuts and the neglected cuts of the hindquarters such as the rump, round and flank, are the cuts to buy if the housewife wishes to practice economy. By proper selection of the cheaper cuts, a 20 per cent saving can be effected in the average food budget," Mr. Pollock said.

Pennsylvania Adopts New Bushel Measure

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 21.—Bushel containers for various food commodities will be changed at once in this state to comply with the McCraig act, just signed by the governor. In some cases the consumer gets more for his money while in others he gets less.

A bushel of apples under the new act must weigh forty-eight pounds instead of forty-five pounds; barley forty-eight instead of forty-seven pounds; cranberries thirty-two instead of forty pounds; cucumbers forty-eight instead of fifty pounds; green peas, unshelled, twenty-eight instead of fifty-six pounds; tomatoes and turnips fifty-six instead of sixty pounds.

Her Prince Turns Out To Be Knight of Road

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 21.—Although her "prince" proved to be a knight of the road, Dola Pascal, who attempted the role of a modern Cinderella, stuck to him. The "prince's" coach turned into a freight train and his castle into a cloud soon after they ran away from her home in Canton, Ill., but "Cinderella" refused to be disillusioned. They were arrested when found living in a box car here, she clad in men's clothes. When "Cinderella's" sister sent $50 to finance the honeymoon they were released.

TO SINK SHAFT

Solely for ventilation purposes, a shaft twenty-two feet in diameter will be sunk to a depth of 3,500 feet in a South African gold mine and connected to a fan with a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet of air a minute.

YEAR BOOK OF SCHOOL IS OUT

The Stylus Filled With Pictures and Matter of Interest to Pupils

Glendale Union High school seniors today are anxiously awaiting the arrival of 7:30 o'clock, when they will march into the Glendale theatre to receive their diplomas, and are spending the interim reading this year's edition of The Stylus.

According to the annual custom, each of the 850 students and teachers who secured copies of this year's book, spent yesterday afternoon in having its photographs autographed, and in collecting epigrams, both witty and sentimental, for its blank pages.

Evert Smits, editor of The Stylus of 1923, and his staff are receiving the congratulations of all who have admired the attractiveness of this year's edition. It contains about 190 pages and is profusely illustrated. It is dedicated to Mrs. Helen S. Moir and Earl T. Brown, senior class teachers.

The editorial force, which has participated in the preparation of this issue, consists of the following: Evert Smits, editor; Miss Elizabeth Higgins, Harry Bennett and Charles Burr, assistant editors; Stillman Chase, business manager; Loren Patrick, advertising manager; Floyd Kinnan, assistant advertising manager; Gordon Bartow, sporting editor; Ralph VanHoorebeke, art editor; Miss Orrell Hester, assistant art editor; Miss Doris Taylor, literary editor; Harold Heacock, photo editor; John Judd, snapshot editor; David Griffiths, joke editor; Bryant Small, copy editor, Miss Elaine Buttrud, alumni editor; Miss Jane Fritch, organization reporter; Miss Elene Truitt, class editor, and Miss Helen Sherwood, reporter of events.

Move Third Time

Faculty advisors have been Miss Jennie Y. Freeman, head of the English department; Rhea H. Baker, head of the commercial department, and Miss Mary Beth Abbott, head of the art department.

"The close of this year will bring us to a new epoch in the history of our high school," remarked Principal George W. Moyse, in an editorial upon the page opposite his photograph. "For the third time in the life of the school, on account of its remarkable growth, we are obliged to seek a new location and build a greater group of buildings. Again, as in the past, we look forward to the accomplishment of greater things through the possession of great opportunities for work and development."

Ohioans Organize to Exterminate Crows

LIMA, Ohio, June 21.—War on crows has been proclaimed by Van Wert county farmers. Every crow in the county will be killed, if possible, in order to save young chickens and cornfields. A hunt was arranged for early this month, starting two hours before sunset and continuing until dark. Hunters hid in woodlots. Shotguns were used, rifles being barred. Captains were appointed in each school district.

Elks Band to Play At K. C. Picnic Sunday

The latest addition to the Knights of Columbus program for their big picnic at Verdugo park next Sunday is the Glendale Elks band, which will render a well-selected program during the afternoon and evening, according to an announcement by Milton H. Berry, who is in charge of the entertainment end of the program. Other attractions are being secured and will be announced before the day of the picnic.

Six Persons Injured When Car Runs Wild

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 21.—Six persons were injured and the lives of a dozen more were endangered yesterday afternoon when a street car ran wild on a grade because of a broken controller. The car turned completely around, but not over.

Comb Savannah for Lynch Mob Members

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 21.—With forty-eight men already arrested, officers today continued their efforts to apprehend additional members of the mob that Tuesday night stormed the county jail, costing the life of Claude Parker, and resulting in injuries to several others.

DEATHS---FUNERALS

JOSEPH L. DENNEY

Joseph L. Denney, for sixteen years a resident of 119 South Verdugo road, died yesterday, Wednesday, June 20, 1923, at his home.

He was 78 years of age at the time of his death, and was a member of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., the Sons of Veterans and the Fillmore lodge, F. & A. M., in Fillmore, Mo.

Mr. Denney is survived by a son, E. E. Denney, of Fillmore, Mo., who will arrive in Glendale Sunday to take his father's remains to the old home in Missouri for burial.

Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Jewel City Undertaking company.

Budget for City About Complete; Final Action to Take Place On June 28

BUDGET figures are about complete, it was stated at the city hall this morning. It will go into effect the first of July. The public hearing upon the budget, as required by the charter, was held yesterday. It resulted in only two changes—an increase in the appropriation for advertising and promotion from $3000 to $5500 and the inclusion of $3000 toward the annual expenses of Community Service.

Mayor Spencer Robinson stated definitely this morning that the budget would not be approved at tonight's session of the City Council. Although the budget, as outlined following, has been tentatively approved, it is desired to postpone official action until June 28 in order to provide an additional week's reflection. The figures:

Liquor Fumes Sicken Spokane Policemen

SPOKANE, Wash., June 21.—So pungent are the fumes from the local brand of moonshine that exhaust fans have been installed in the "booze room" at police headquarters for the benefit of officers engaged in pouring confiscated liquor down the sewer. Prison trusties drafted for the job complained that the fumes made them ill.

Local beer makers are turning out a turgid product, too, failing to strain out the yeast properly. An appeal for a more thorough yeast straining was issued by Police Chief Wesley Turner, after a beer bottle blew up and opened a five-inch gap in his chin.

Bernhardt's Home Is Mecca for Tourists

PARIS, June 21.—The house in which Sarah Bernhardt lived and died has become a shrine for American lovers of the art of the great French actress. Sight-seeing busses now include Boulevarde Periere in their itineraries, and upon approaching the number 53, the guides call out in hushed voices "that is where the 'Divine Sarah' breathed her last."

Madame Bernhardt's simple tomb in the Cemetery Pere Lachaise also is visited daily by scores of former admirers of the actress. Never once since the body was placed there has the tomb been devoid of fresh flowers.

U. S. TAR AND ROYALTY MIX

King Of Greece Greets Yankee Sailor Lad

King George and Paul F. Skewes

While Radioman First Class Paul E. Skewes (right), U. S. N., was sightseeing with some of his shipmates in Athens he was surprised in rounding a corner of the palace grounds to meet King George of Greece (left) face to face. The king, being a young man and democratic, and, in addition, being a sailor, greeted the Yankee gob and told him how much he appreciated the assistance rendered Greece by the men of the American navy who were at Smyrna during the great conflagration.

HARDING FAVORS SCOUT MOVEMENT

President Writes Letter in Which He Tells of Need for Boys

The following letter from President Warren G. Harding to E. B. DeGroot, scout executive, of Los Angeles, was given to The Glendale Evening News by A. R. Eastman, head of the Scout Council here:

The White House,
Washington, June 21, 1923.

Dear Mr. DeGroot: I am pleased to learn that your Council has met the specified conditions and is entitled to the award of the Anniversary Round-Up Streamer, which I take great pleasure in presenting, with additional streamers for qualified troops. Please extend to each member of the local Council, and others associated with you in the work, my hearty congratulations and good wishes. I desire especially to convey appreciation to scoutmasters and to the boys of those troops which have earned the troop award.

It is most stimulating to realize that through the Boy Scouts of America over 130,000 men are now enrolled for definite volunteer service, and that at present there are over 400,000 boy members of this splendid organization. Certainly it can be truly said that the men who are in any way supporting this movement, and especially those who are serving as active leaders, are helping in a most practical fashion to produce for the nation its greatest need—men of character, trained for citizenship.

I am keenly anxious to do all in my power to extend the influence of the Scout Program, because America must avail itself of every resource for producing that type of American citizenship which will not be content with the acceptance of the privileges of citizenship without active participation in meeting the responsibilities of citizenship. In the Boy Scout movement, you not only place emphasis upon service, but you have worked out your program in such a way that boys actually "learn by doing," and in a natural manner acquire that attitude of mind which brings to them a consciousness that they must be citizens of the participating kind, and not mere on-lookers.

I do most sincerely hope that you will continue your efforts to recruit increased leadership and greater resources, in order that more boys of scout age may have the advantages of this movement, which has earned for itself appraisement as one of the greatest assets our nation has today.

Sincerely yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

Mr. E. B. DeGroot, Scout Executive, B. S. A., 930 West 39th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Revive Curb Markets To Sell Vegetables

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—Old familiar scenes of the line of market baskets dangling from the arms of thrifty housewives on their way to the "curb" to purchase freshly gathered vegetables have been revived in St. Louis.

The return of the curb markets has brought back sights which long ago had passed out of existence. Early morning, starting at dawn, the "run" on the market begins.

Curb trading is fascinating—to the women traders participating and to observers. The women come from the homes of laborers, professional men and big financial leaders, but stand on equal footing at the market to do their trading for the table. All are attracted by the fresh fragrance of the greens, the spirit of the trading and the low prices of the products.

The producer, unlike those of olden days, loads his machine up in the country an hour before the market opening and speeds to his location. Business usually opens up with a rush, as the early buyers are there in large numbers to get "first pickings."

Six curb markets have been established in St. Louis by truck farmers and the fields of production extend to a radius of more than 50 miles of the city. The markets have been opened in both the exclusive and poorer sections of the city.

Spokane Realtors Ban Leases to Liquor Men

SPOKANE, Wash., June 21.—Owners of small tracts in the farm country adjacent to Spokane—the honest ones, anyway—are writing "no moonshining" clauses into their leases. Real estate firms dealing in tract leasing are planning to insert similar printed clauses in standard leases.

Any tract advertised for lease near a town in eastern Washington brings applications from moonshiners, especially if it has good water supply. As high as $50 a month is offered for small tracts, almost useless for agriculture.

TONSILS REMOVED

Carol J. Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Thomas of 851 Stanley avenue, Eagle Rock, had her tonsils removed this morning at the Glendale Research Hospital.

An area estimated by the Danish government at 2,170,000 square kilometers, Greenland has a population of less than 15,000.

Horse Is Lame But Purchaser Must Pay

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 21.—Whether a horse, possessed of a kind and loving disposition, but lacking motive power in its hind legs was worth $180 was the question presented for decision in a unique suit tried in Municipal court here.

The suit resulted from the sale of the horse by one E. L. Maynard, farmer residing near here, to a neighbor, S. J. Engstrom. After he had obtained possession of the horse Engstrom, according to Maynard's complaint, refused to pay for the animal.

Engstrom in his reply declared that an agreement had been entered into between himself and Maynard whereby he was not to be compelled to pay for the horse until his qualities had been proven by actual service. He told the court that this test revealed that the horse was "kind hearted and loving," but also that his hind legs were lame and that for pulling purposes the horse was worthless.

The court, after hearing the evidence, decided that a bargain had been entered into and ordered the defendant to pay for the horse without having ruled upon the question put to him by Englestrom's attorney regarding the monetary value of kind dispositions in horses.

Advises Girl of 14 to Delay Her Marriage

BROCKTON, Mass., June 21.—The romance of Mary Mendoes, fourteen years old, and Dolphin Gomes, a 37-year-old storekeeper, both of Wareham, was nipped in the bud by the refusal of Judge L. E. Chamberlain, of the Plymouth County Probate court, to sanction their marriage.

Judge Chamberlain advised the girl to wait until she is older and understands her own mind. He had learned that Gomes had requested permission of the Mendoes girl's parents to have her become a sort of a housekeeper and clerk in his store. Her father instead proposed the marriage.

Grammar Pupils Spell Down Yale Professors

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 21.—A Yale professor and a publisher were "spelled down" by seventh and eighth grade public school children in the annual contest between the children and the local Kiwanis club, when the two men and eight children had survived the preliminary rounds of the contest before a large audience. Failure to spell comparatively simple words floored the men.

Kneels and Prays in Front of Fire Truck

BELLAIRE, Ohio, June 21.—Running out into the street, "Cooney" Conroy knelt in the direct path of a moving fire truck and began praying. Jesse Dunaway, driver, stopped the machine. It required the strength of five other men and Dunaway to remove Conroy to the city lockup, pending a lunacy inquest. Excessive religious zeal is believed to have caused Conroy's mind to become deranged.

MONTROSE

SERVICE STATION TO COST $5000

C. J. Stahlberg of Glendale Builds for Efficiency as Well as Beauty

The new service station going in at the corner of Montrose avenue and Sunset drive, will be an ornament to the community, as well as a profitable investment, is the belief of the proprietor, C. J. Stahlberg, who is investing close to $5000 in the enterprise.

The station is finished in stucco and provided with rest rooms and comfort stations, together with other modern features which tend to offer patrons the maximum of service and convenience.

Three separate gasoline tanks are being installed, each to dispense a separate brand of fuel, all at the lowest prevailing market prices, according to Mr. Stahlberg. Three high-powered pumps will handle the flow from the tanks.

A special feature is the installation of underground lubricant containers, to be operated by compressors, a feature that will add greatly to the space inside the salesroom, due to the elimination of the customary oil barrels.

An up-todate washk rack is being installed, where general greasing will be done, with motor cleaning a specialty. A garage building is also part of the scheme, to be built on the rear of the lot, for the accommodation of patrons.

It is planned to have the station in operation by July 1, and every effort is being made to that end.

Mr. Stahlberg is a resident of Glendale, living at 215 West Park avnue. He came to that city a little more than a year ago and opened a shoe shop there. Associated with him in the service station at Montrose and Sunset is a former Standard Oil company man a relative of the family recently arrived from the East.

Delegates Named to Educational Meeting

The delegates to represent the Glendale City Teachers' club at The National Education association, which convenes in San Francisco and Oakland July 1-6, are Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, president of the club, and Miss Carol Duncan, of the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school. They will also attend the World's Conference of Education, which will be held, beginning June 28, in connection with the N. E. A.

Mrs. Ryan expects to leave next Tuesday for the north and Miss Duncan accompanied by her sister, Mrs. John T. Cates, of the Cerritos Avenue school, will go by boat on Sunday.

Miss Duncan expects to take special work at the University at Berkeley and will be in the north about two months. Mrs. Cates will be absent a month.

RECOVERED FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

"Had stomach trouble three years and finally was in bed eight weeks with terrible cramps," writes A. L. Lyons, Dayton, Ohio. "The doctors did not help me and I could hold nothing on my stomach. Tried Foley Cathartic Tablets and now am a well man. Can eat anything." Sour stomach, headache, bad breath, biliousness and other digestive disorders quickly overcome with Foley Cathartic Tablets. LA CRESCENTA

SILVER TEA FOR BENEFIT OF CLUB

Former Resident of India Will Address Guests at Garden Party

Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Peck were co-hostesses yesterday afternoon at a silver tea given for the benefit of the Women's Club. The affair was held in Mrs. Pritchard's beautiful colonial home on Michigan boulevard. A cheery coal fire greeted the guests in the small sitting room where tea was served and afterwards they retired to the blue drawing room for a friendly conversational hour.

Mrs. Reynolds assisted Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Peck by presiding at the tea urn.

Mrs. Seymour Thomas announces that Sir Henry Sharpe will speak for a few minutes on India at the garden party to be given at Cuddle Doon June 28. Sir Henry has lived in India for a period of years and will greatly add to the program to be furnished. Mrs. Minford announces if anyone wishing to donate jelly, cakes or candy to sell at the garden fete, or has any small articles to give to the fish pond, will call her up at her home she will gladly call at their residence to collect the articles and take them to Cuddle Doon. Glendale 2024J2 will reach Mrs. Minford.

Surprise Party

A pleasant surprise party was given Mrs. Harcourt and her niece, Mrs. Alma Austen, last evening, the occasion being a farewell honor for Mrs. Harcourt, who has been choir leader for the past year, here in the community church.

After their final choir practice with Mrs. Harcourt the party journeyed to Jane's Chicken Grill, where covers were laid for twenty-eight. Mrs. Harcourt and Mrs. Townson delighted the company with some well chosen vocal numbers and Mrs. Charles Bickel and Mr. MacDaniel added to the evening's enjoyment with their delightful violin music.

Mr. MacDaniel has promised to carry on the good work of Mrs. Harcourt and will train the choir in her absence.

Mrs. Alma Rusten, who has just finished her year as teacher here of the fifth and sixth grades, is also returning to Los Angeles with her aunt, Mrs. Harcourt, much to the regret of all her friends and acquaintances. They will, however, be delighted to welcome their friends in their new home at 876 North Helitrope drive.

Mrs. Sharpe of Prospect avenue entertained at a small party for Miss Elizabeth Austen last evening. Those present were Elizabeth Austen, Catharine Sharpe, Constance Angier, John Austen, Mrs. Mandis and two sons of Glendale. Refreshments were served and games enjoyed by the youthful guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskins are enjoying a trip touring southern California. Mr. Haskins is having his first vacation since taking on the arduous duties as manager of the Montrose Bank.

Choir On Radio

Local radio fans will be delighted to know they will have the pleasure of hearing the Community Church choir over the wireless. Under Mrs. Harcourt's training they have been preparing for this and will no doubt be heard in a very short time.

Miss Charlotte Fay of Piedmont avenue entertained the younger set Tuesday evening at her home. Those present were Mary Anne Howard, Margaret Brown, Helen Fisher, Dorothy Groves, Dorothy Bolter, Fanny Clark, Mildred Hooper, Harold Swanson, Robert Potts, Paul McAsker, Lawrence Potter, Herbert Hodgkiss, Willie Clark, James Hooper, James Miller and Gregg Haskins. Games were played after which supper was served and the remainder of the evening given over to dancing.

Mrs. Brown of Montrose had as her guest at the Woman's Club silver tea yesterday, her daughter, Mrs. Brown, Jr., who has just returned a short time ago from Bombay Province, India, where she and her husband were interested in missionary work.

Mrs. Nettleton has so far recovered from her recent serious operation and illness as to be able to enjoy a motor trip of a short distance. She has been missed very much in her club work, as she was such an untiring worker.

Scouts' Committee on Camping Will Meet

All members of the Boy Scout Camping Committee are urged by Frank C. Ayars to be present tonight at the district Scout office, 103½ S. Brand, for the purpose of going over various bids on foodstuffs, equipment, etc., for the summer vacation camp near Lake Arrowhead.

The time set for the meeting is 8 o'clock. The following men are urged to be present by Mr. Ayars: George H. Bentley, Charles L. Chandler, Francis J. W. Henry, and A. R. Eastman of Glendale; Dr. Frank C. Tillson, Ed. F. Pomeroy, Dr. Philip E. Zeiss, and Wm. F. Craig of Burbank; Leo L. Lang of Tujunga; A. C. Cox, La Crescenta; and Dr. Harry B. Crawford of Eagle Rock.

Receives Signed Turk Concessions

Arthur Chester

Arthur Chester, son of Admiral Colby Chester, U. S. N., retired, has returned from Angora, Turkey, where he received from officials of the new Turkish Government the signed concessions granted to his father, involving immense oil and railway grants and contracts to build several modern cities.

COMMENT
That's All

International Finance
Art Taking Its Place
Mild Weather in Glendale
Tolerance Is Necessary

By Gil A. Cowan

ANOTHER day and another brokerage house gone broke. International banking is blamed for a large part of the difficulties enjoyed by New York financial houses. Perhaps they were gambling on Mr. Harding's World Court and the League of Nations, both of which have found a poor market in the United States.

Glendale people, who are far removed from the interest in old world affairs, will never bat an eye over the fall of German marks, or an Italian catastrophe, or the prospect of war in Central Europe. Indeed, they have come to Glendale and southern California for the very purpose of forgetting the eastern centers with their foreign entanglements.

President Harding, when he reaches the west, will do well to forget the east and praise the west and talk of its future. He will make no friends by trying to impress Californians with the importance of America's part in Europe's peace. The Pacific coast is too preoccupied with its own problems to worry over some one else's scrambled eggs.

Art is becoming a part of Glendale homes and stores. Even the schools are featuring displays of contemporary artists. It is surprising to see a valuable collection from the Stendahl galleries hanging on the walls of the Central Avenue school auditorium.

In the Jensen Palace Grand Shops building artists are busy; the Glendale Phonograph & Piano Company's Artistic Brunswick Shoppe is another example of artistic atmosphere created by the brush of J. S. Schultz. Also in the Golden Spanish Cafe on Orange street you find paintings on the wall that connoiseurs might consider masterpieces.

The Pelley home in Sycamore canyon of Moorish architecture; the Fairbanks home in Grand View road, not to mention a dozen more, radiate the reincarnation of old masters in the modern world. And in the arrangement of the home grounds, as well as in the architecture itself, a deeper appreciation of beauty is exhibited than can be described in written words.

While the mildest weather continues to blanket Southern California with what is known as a high fog, reports from the East and Middle West have many dead and dying from a heat wave. The southwestern part of the United States seems to be spared.

And when we stop a minute to think that the high fog and cloudy skies mean rain for the suffering sections further east we can stoically do without the sunshine for a little while. It will be warm enough later on, no doubt.

Governor Richardson has signed the anti-cropping contract bill, which is designed to halt evasion of the anti-alien land law. Having heard the arguments on this measure in committee session, the writer believes that the land owners who contract with Oriental labor on a share in the crop are in no wise humanitarian.

Frank admissions were made by them that they could obtain no other unfortunate human beings to work night and day, men, women and children, in the fields, to pick the berries or handle vegetables. They admitted it was impossible for Asiatics to spend money for homes and live according to American customs.

The Pasadena Star-News passes out some pretty good advice, well worthy of printing, when it says:

"Be tolerant. Do not consider those who differ from you in politics or on any important subject as being necessarily off color, either mentally or morally. Those who differ from you may be just as honest, just as sincere and just as intelligent as yourself. This is a world peopled by 'many men of many minds.'"

BUSINESS SITES MOVING RAPIDLY

George W. Anderson Tells of Important Sales Made At High Prices

Gratifying realty activity is reported by George W. Anderson, business property dealer of 117 South Brand boulevard.

He reports the sale of 100 feet on South Brand between Elk street and Lomita avenue for a consideration of approximately $40,000. Mrs. E. Sherman was the owner of the property, purchased by H. Massey of Chicago.

Other sales are the northwest corner of Lomita avenue and Brand boulevard to Mr. Massey. The owners were Hal Davenport and L. P. Davis and the consideration was approximately $30,000. Mr. Massey is planning on covering this 150 feet with a two story modern building.

Mr. Anderson also sold the fifty feet adjoining the old log cabin on the corner of Lomita avenue and Brand boulevard to Helen Cavin of Hollywood for approximately $20,000 cash. The owner was Mr. Gould.

Buys $15,000 Site

Another sale transacted by Mr. Anderson was the southwest corner of Gardena avenue and Brand boulevard to Mr. Jacks of Glendale. The consideration was approximately $15,000. The owner was C. H. Herr De Baurck, a retired capitalist of Minneapolis, Minn.

It is of interest that Mr. Anderson himself has purchased fifty feet near Cypress street, which he intends to improve with a modern brick store building to cover the entire frontage and to run back sixty feet. The cost of the building will be about $25,000.

"I am very enthusiastic over the property around Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard, "says Mr. Anderson, "and predict that Colorado and Los Feliz will be the two high lights of Brand boulevard during the next two years."

Former Pastor Wins Praise in New Field

Broadway Methodist church South members will be interested in a message today from Carpinteria, telling of the activities there of Rev. D. M. Barr as pastor of the First Methodist church. Rev. Barr was for a time pastor of the Broadway church.

According to the report Rev. Barr's congregation is supporting him heartily and the church attendance has increased.

The Carpinteria Herald says in a recent issue, "Speaking of enterprise, our new Methodist minister, the Rev. Barr, showed a great amount of it the latter part of last week. Lining up his sons, he waded into the grassy plot surrounding the edifice, where he officiates, and in a short time had it looking like a real lawn.

"We are predicting great success for him in our midst."

MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 21.—The recovery from the heavy declines of yesterday, which started in the stock market at the opening today, made further progress and most of the best prices were reached at the close. Short covering was mainly responsible for the rise.

Baldwin sold up about 4 points to 124⅜, American Can recovered four points to 91⅞ and Steel common advanced about 2 points to 92½. Sugar stocks rose about 2 points each. Rails, while less active than the industrials, also shared in the upturn.

Government bonds were unchanged; railway and other bonds heavy.

Stock sales today 1,259,000 shares; bonds $10,014,000.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Following an easy opening, with prices slightly off, grain prices gathered strength today and closed at higher levels. Statistical reports on the corn crop were extremely bullish, while weather reports from the wheat belt made themselves felt. Oats followed the leadership in the other grains.

Wheat closed ½ to 1c. Corn finished ⅜ to 1⅛c higher. Oats was up ¼ to ⅝c at the end.

Provisions showed slight losses on small offerings.

Nazarene Revival Is Causing Much Interest

An enthusiastic report is made of the revival service last night at the Nazarene tent on West Harvard street. Rev. Swaney took for his text Titus 2, 11-14, speaking at length on the second coming of Christ and what it meant to the believer.

He urged his hearers to live so that they need have no fear of Christ's coming. During the service there was a duet by the pastor and his wife.

FIRM CUTS OUT TRADE DISCOUNT

Wall Paper Prices Slashed By New System of Crossland Bros.

Hereafter no trade discounts or commissions will be allowed at the wall paper store of Crossland Brothers, 225 East Broadway, announces R. A. Crossland.

In explaining this decision Mr. Crossland points out that it has been common practice in the wall paper business to allow paperhangers a 33 1-3 per cent discount, but that from now on this discount will be eliminated at his store, all papers and other goods being sold straight to the customer at a net price.

"By eliminating this pernicious trade discount, I am now able to mark my papers from one-third to one-half off," says Mr. Crossland, affording the buying public a real and substantial saving.

"I feel just this way about the discount proposition. If a customer went into a clothing store and bought a $60 suit, it would certainly annoy him to know that some agent walked into that store the next day and demanded $20 as a commission for sending him there. The man would feel that he paid just one-third too much for his suit, and he would be quite right.

Demand Commission

"What happens in the wall paper business—in stores that allow the commission—is just the same sort of thing. You buy the paper for your house, say $100 is the amount of your purchase. The next day, although in nine cases out of ten you know nothabout it, the paper hanger who will do the job for you comes into my store and demands $33 in cash—and I have to pay him.

"But no more! I have made up my mind that hereafter this evil will not exist in our store. From now on no commissions will be paid and no discounts allowed by Crossland Brothers. We will deal directly with the public—and we are confident the public will deal directly with us."

GUARD OFFICERS WILL BE GUESTS

Camp at Salinas Will Be Discussed at Dinner Friday Night

Glendale National Guardsmen will fall in at the Armory, 108 North Brand boulevard, at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night and march to the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse for a battle royal with knives and forks. The outfit will go "over the top" about 7 p. m., according to a wig-wag this morning from Capt. J. H. Wittmeyer, and the engagement will last until taps has been sounded over all appetites. A smoke screen will be thrown up while kitchen police is being performed by non-section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Col Walter P. Story of Los Angeles, commander of the One Hundred Sixtieth National Guard regiment, will be the guest of honor. Other officers present will be Lieut. Col. Harcourt Hervey of the One Hundred Sixtieth; Capt. B. M. Eskridge, adjutant of the One Hundred Sixtieth; Maj. H. Belt, commander of the third battalion, Lieut. Col. Jack Richmond and Maj. F. E. Cotton, both of the regular army.

The national guard camp at Salinas, which will open July 7, will be discussed. This has been named Camp Richardson in honor of Governor Friend Richardson.

Graduation Tonight At Wilson School

The graduation exercises of the Wilson Avenue school will be held at 6 o'clock tonight, June 21, on the school grounds, and will be in the form of a pageant in seven scenes, under the direction of Miss Ada M. Sallstrom, with music furnished by the Wilson Avenue School orchestra.

Diplomas will be presented by David J. Hibben, president of the Board of Education, t othe 150 graduates.

French Widow Seeks To Emulate Diogenes

PARIS, June 21. — Madame Tranzal, aged 60, played the role of Diogenes when she presented herself before the bar at Remirement carrying in her hand a candle and a box of matches.

"I wish to give light to the jury for my case," she declared, and the judge had no little difficulty in trying to prevent her from lighting a candle and sticking it in his pocket, much to the amusement of all citizens present. The poor widow was fined 60 francs.

Says Hawaii Is Ideal To Cure White Plague

HONOLULU, June 21.—The climate of Hawaii is ideal for the treatment of tuberculosis, according to Dr. R. Nelson Hatt, orthopedic surgeon, who is in charge of a special clinic for the treatment of children's diseases here, organized by local Shriners in co-operation with the national body.

"It is my impression that the Hawaiian climate offers almost Utopian conditions for the relief of tuberculosis," Dr. Hatt said in an address before the annual meeting of the Medical Society of Hawaii.

May Raise Warships Sunk in Scapa Flow

GLASGOW, June 21.—The greater part of the German fleet, sunk by its own officers and men at Scapa Flow in the fall of 1919, may soon be salvaged and brought to the surface again.

A group of Glasgow chartered accountants have recently concluded negotiations with the admiralty for the purchase of a portion of the sunken fleet, and it is hoped to begin operations at an early date.

There are forty-nine ships at Scapa, including the famous Hindenburg and Seydlitz, but some of the larger ships were sunk in thirty fathoms, and the salvaging of them is not considered likely to be a commercial success.

Traffic Blocked by Big Snapping Turtle

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 21. —Traffic on busy Whitney avenue was blockaded at a point near Lake Whitney, a city reservoir, by a twenty-pound snapping turtle, and strings of trolleys and machines piled up in two directions as efforts were made to get the creature out of the way. Tiring finally of snapping at sticks and legs and hands, the turtle slid off the highway into the lake, and motormen and chauffeurs went onward figuring out how to explain delays to the boss, while school children wondered if their excuse for tardiness would get them by.

Charles H. Toll Home Is Scene Of Mutual Benefit Reading Circle Luncheon

SILENTLY pledging themselves to the great cause of the American child, over 120 persons gathered yesterday in the gardens of the Charles H. Toll home on Kenneth road, for the "home-coming" of the Glendale Mutual Benefit Reading Circle with its "mother," Mrs. Toll. It was a happy reunion of Mrs. Toll and old and new members of the circle, as well as a delightful event for the invited guests.

Mrs. Toll's happiness was voiced by her in the greeting. "This week, the week of June 17, is a red letter one for me, for it marks the home-coming of two of my children. Today I am receiving the Reading Circle, of which I am the proud mother, and on Friday my first-born, Charles H. Toll, Jr., arrives home from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, from which he recently graduated.

And the happiness of members and guests was fittingly expressed in singing the first verse of "Home, Sweet Home" before the al fresco luncheon, served under the pepper trees in the west garden.

In Charge of Tables

Mrs. Pierson Hanning was in charge of the arrangement of the luncheon tables, and was assisted by Mesdames Wintersgill, C. W. Taylor, Torrey, Pomeroy, McCormick, Lewis and H. V. Ellis. The table of honor occupied a place under one of the large pepper trees, and the three other tables were placed under the trees to the south of the guest table. Brilliant orange nasturtiums, coreopsis and lion's tail were the flowers used with ivy. At the honor table the individual places were marked with tiny jardinieres filled with nasturtiums.

The cafeteria lunch was planned by Mrs. R. C. Horner, assisted by Mesdames Charles Bird, Krenzer and Curwood, and was tastefully prepared by Mesdames L. Aicholz and M. Jepson at the cafeteria at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school.

Mrs. C. H. Crawford, chairman of current education, had been chosen to be toastmistress, and she presided over the afternoon program in a most clever and witty manner.

Taking the nation-wide aspect of child welfare as an inspiration Mrs. Crawford cleverly likened the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle to the national government, and introduced as president, Mrs. A. A. Barton, who responded in an equally clever way stating that her duties as president had taught her "the pleasure of being persistent in being patient."

Inspiring Message

Mrs. Alma J. Danford, librarian of the Public Library, where the Circle meetings are held, and chairman of education, was presented next, and in her usual delightful way gave an inspiring message to guests and members.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, was introduced as the secretary of labor, and in reply stated that as secretary of labor he was a member of a union, and that union is of the school and home.

Principal George U. Moyse of the Glendale High school was introduced as the secretary of war, and declared himself a leader of an army of co-operation, while Mrs. E. B. Moore, presented as the secretary of the interior, spoke for devotion to home and country.

Upon being announced as the attorney general, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson said, "I plead the cause of every child in this state, and the cause of every mother and my earnest wish is for better schools, better children, better parents, more reading circles and more Mrs. Tolls."

Tells of Convention

As mother of the Circle and ever-present inspiration, Mrs. Toll was introduced as the secretary of state, and this introduction was heartily applauded. After a very cordial greeting she gave an entertaining and instructive account of the recent twenty-seventh annual convention of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations held in Louisville, Ky. She was one of the five delegates from California, and had the pleasure and privilege of addressing the convention and conducting the two conferences on reading circle organization and activity. She told of the eagerness with which the reading circle project was received and of the interest taken by the women in the accomplishments of the Glendale circle.

As a result of her addresses at the convention Miss Lombard, of the national educational department, has asked Mrs. Toll to write an article on reading circles for the September number of "School Life," the official organ of the educational department of the national government.

Mrs. Toll outlined the convention meetings, pleasure trips and other events and, in closing, stated that there are 537,000 members of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations in the United States.

Here Is Creed

The final thought she left with her hearers was the creed written by M. S. Mason and printed on the convention program. It read:

"I believe in the American child and his ability to work out a safe democracy for the future.

"I believe the home, the school, and the church share the responsibility of developing this ability.

"I believe that my first duty is to my own child, in my own home.

"I believe that my next duty is to other children in my community.

"I believe that duty reaches to the children of my state, my nation and my world.

"I believe that only through the working together of all patriotic people can better child conditions be brought about.

"I believe the Parent-Teacher association makes possible a co-operation of all the patriotic people.

"I believe that such co-operation is coming.

"I believe that I can help it to come."

Seated about Mrs. Toll at the table of honor were her house guest, Mrs. A. B. Howell of Honolulu; Mesdames E. B. Moore, C. E. Hutchinson, C. H. Crawford, R. Ernest Tucker, A. A. Barton, H. V. Henry, Alma J. Danford and Richardson D. White, George U. Moyse, L. T. Rowley and R. Ernest Tucker.

Among other guests were Mesdames G. O. Piercey, P. A. Olson, M. S. Halverson, A. C. Mordorf, Charles Marshall, Henry Cassell, F. S. Solter, M. E. Plasterer, M. H. Gillelen, G. W. Hibben, J. I. Wernette, J. H. Folz, Sarah Skelton, Sarah Goldsten, W. J. McManus, John Robert White, Florence S. Kurtz, J. P. Strain, Marie Whitney, D. M. Doredna, A. N. Cline, B. Elliott Hensel, F. Weetman, A. Perkins, H. C. Seaman, O. O. Clark, W. W. Stamps, C. E. Case, Nelle Hankey, T. W. Zimpelman, M. V. Campton and Misses Katherine V. Sinks, Edna Banfield and Gertrude Gibbs.

In bidding Mrs. Toll farewell the guests surrounded her on the lawn and joining hands sang "Auld Lang Syne."

R. E. Ernest Tucker led in singing.

May apples shriek when pulled from the ground, said an old superstition.

AUTHOR SPEAKER AT CLUB MEET

Harold W. Fairbanks Tells About Peaks, Deserts, And Mountain Ranges

The development of southern California is largely dependent upon its topography.

Anyhow, that is what Harold W. Fairbanks of 1625 Grand View road yesterday noon in the dining-room of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse informed the Glendale Exchange club.

Dr. W. H. Appleton of 111 East Broadway offered a course of treatments as the attendance prize. It was won by F. C. Butler.

Guests at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burns of Chicago, Mrs. James Howarth, Edwin Lester, B. R. Moser, G. A. Howland and Clifford Nirmen, the last four delegates from the Los Angeles Exchange club. They extended a personal invitation to members of the local club to attend a dinner dance June 27 in the banquet room of the Elite Cafe in Los Angeles.

Mr. Fairbanks is the author of a number of text books, a world-wide traveler and a nationally recognized authority upon the subject of geography.

"Los Angeles is a cross-roads town," he remarked. "Until recently it was impossible to go from one part of southern California to another without going through Los Angeles. Railroads took advantage of this fact."

Peaks Cause Rain

If California were not fringed with its borders of high mountains, in the opinion of Mr. Fairbanks, it would have been a hilly desert region, sparsely settled, and only fit for sheep ranches. He called attention to the fact that the high peaks of the Sierras penetrate the clouds and cause them to condense in the form of rain or snow. In the latter case, it remains upon their heights until spring and thus keeps a more even supply of water in the rivers.

The climate of southern California, according to Mr. Fairbanks, is similar to that found around the Mediterranean, in South Africa, in the Chile valley and in the southern part of Australia.

Light rainfall as a handicap to civilization was denied by Mr. Fairbanks. He reminded his audience that civilization had its cradle in Egypt and Mesopotamia and in Central China, where rainfall is unusually light. He added, however, that a water supply was very necessary for development.

Make Water Supply

"The time was when all Southern California was a region of low relief like the Mojave desert and parts of Riverside county," he remarked. "If the higher mountains had not come, we would have had a desert region. The mountains have made possible our water supply. The mountains condense the rain which otherwise pass over us and never fall to the earth. We have little idea here in the valleys the tremendous amount of rain and snowfall in the mountains. It is probably two or three times as much in the mountains as in the valleys."

The San Gabriel mountains behind Pasadena are much older than the same range in the vicinity of the Rim-of-the-World. Mr. Fairbanks said that it was possible to ascertain this fact from a comparison of the contours.

The increase in the height of California mountains from low hills to lofty mountains was brought about by upheavals of the earth's surface.

"California," remarked Mr. Fairbanks, "if it had not been for the movements of the earth, which gave rise to earthquakes, would

Realty Men Launch Move To Insure Purchase Of Verdugo Park For City

PLANS for the acquisition of a site or sites for a city park were tentatively started yesterday at the luncheon of the Glendale Realty Board, at their luncheon in the Harriett Mae Tea Room on East Harvard street, when President C. D. Thom was authorized by the members to appoint a committee of five members to look into the matter and to report to the board at an early meeting with recommendations for sites that could, in their opinion, be secured as playgrounds for the people of Glendale. The action of the board came as a result of an announcement made by W. L. Twining, in which he said that an informal conference of a number of realtors that had been held during the Jinks picnic last Saturday had shown practically every member of the board to whom he had talked as being in favor of the acquisition of a city owned park where similar picnics could be held by any local organization or by other outside organizations.

Mr. Twining stated that he had been assured by Lon J. Haddock, of Haddock-Nibley Company, the present owners of what was formerly Verdugo Park, that his firm would be willing to turn the park property back to the city of Glendale for the amount that they had paid for it, without making any profit on the deal. It was the opinion of Mr. Twining and the other members of the board with whom he had discussed the question, he stated, that an active campaign should be launched to place the proposition of buying back the park before the voters of Glendale at an early election, when he believed it would carry by at least five to one.

Crime to Lose Park

The loss of the park was characterized as a crime by Roy King, who cited the example of Brookside Park, Pasadena, to which picnics from all the adjacent cities go in immense numbers every week; and Peter Hansen backed up the previous speakers with the assertion that Glendale and Verdugo Park are known all over the Southland and that the place should be secured and improved by the installation of swimming pools, baseball grounds and other playgrounds such as are needed in every up-to-date city, and that it should be held for the people of Glendale and their children. W. A. Horn described the loss of the park to the city as a direct result of the lack of vision on the part of the people and urged that the Realty Board take some action to secure either the Verdugo Park or some other site that would lend itself equally well to park uses, if that were possible.

That the sentiment of many people in Glendale is favorable to the purchase of a creditable park site was the opinion expressed by Dr. Jessie A. Russell, and it was on her motion that President Thom was instructed to appoint a committee of five to look into the matter, adding that it should be clearly understood that no member of the Glendale Realty Board who was in any way connected with the committee should profit to the slightest degree by any park site purchase that might be consummated, but that it should be understood that they are acting in this instance solely from a desire to see Glendale secure a park that will be worthy of the city.

W. L. Truitt suggested that the subject be placed before the citizens of Glendale at a mass meeting, so that it could be discussed from every angle.

The directory committee reported that Manager Fred Deal of the local telephone office had assured them that the designation "realtor" would only be applied to members of the Glendale Realty Board in the new directory that is to be issued shortly.

Solve Sign Problem

James W. Pearson submitted a map showing the recommendations that he and the members of his committee will make to the City Council regarding the electric signs that are placed at San Fernando road on the south and at the west end of Broadway to the west. The City Council will be asked to add to these two signs the name of the road over which they hang, and also to establish another sign on South Brand pointing travelers to that thoroughfare, so that anyone may follow whatever road he desires, and it is believed that this solution of the problem will work out satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

W. L. Twining reported for the Jinks committee on the income and expenses of the picnic last Saturday, and his bills were passed and the committee discharged, with the thanks of the entire board and with a shower of compliments all around.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, who will leave for the National Real Estate Association's convention at Cleveland on Friday, was given the best wishes of her associates.

Secretary E. P. Hayward announced a meeting of all the salesmen of all the firms that are doing business under the Multiple Listing System at the Chamber of Commerce rooms next Tuesday night, when members of the committee that have been looking into this subject will meet with the salesmen to discuss this selling plan and to see how they regard it, with a view to reaching a decision as to its retention.

New Officers Chosen By Live Cole Class

The following officers have been chosen to guide the destinies of the Live Cole Sunday School class of the Central Christian church during the coming year: Margaret Overton, president; Howard Bennett, vice-president; Margaret Morrow, secretary; Guila Darling, treasurer. The election took place last Friday night at the regular monthly business meeting of the organization.

CITY LEADS IN NEW TELEPHONES

Takes First Place Among Cities of Its Class in Installations

Growing Glendale takes the lead for all cities of its class in the installation of new telephones this year, according to the Pacific Telephone magazine for June, received today by Fred Deal, manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company here.

The first four months of 1923 shows that 449 phones were added to 4420 already installed, making a total of 4869. In another month this city will be in a class with Alameda and Bakersfield, Calif., and Aberdeen and Yakima, Wash., which have more than 5000 stations.

The percentage of increase shown by Glendale was 10.18, with Alhambra coming second with a score of 10.01. Among smaller cities Astoria, Ore., which is rebuilding bigger and better from its fire ruins, and Fullerton, Calif., also show abnormal increases, as does Culver City with its new exchange.

Variety Of June Weather All Over United States To Satisfy Every Taste

By GIL A. COWAN

SUMMER begins! That's what the almanac chronicles for Thursday, June 21, 1923. Here's hoping it's right, for we have had enough spring. Therefore we shall speak kindly today of the good old summer time, noting the various climes in which we have enjoyed (?) June. In Illinois, where the light of day first dawned for us, it is the month of ripening corn, chautauquas and thunderstorms. It gets uncomfortably hot in Chicago in June and only a west wind bringing rain affords relief. The schools close the first of the month, the college boys come home and great plans are made for the celebration of the Fourth of July, usually featured by an "Old Home Week."

In California June is the most unnatural season of the year for it contains more of the "unusual climatic conditions" than any other 30-day period on the calendar. New high, low and intermediate temperatures are registered with the apricots either cooked by the sun or spoiled by the rain. Indeed, it is so peculiar that each separate year needs a different description. This June is featured by a "high fog," snow flurries in the northern part of the state and traces of rain in Southern California.

Arizona has a vaudeville performance every month of the year, depending upon what part of the state you are in. It gets as hot in June as the devil may care for the border burghers while in the north you will find snow on the mountains with rain and hail and sunshine all at the same time. Arizona climate is indescribable as a state, yet it gains notoriety for being such. Most Phoenix folks live on the trains running between the capital and Prescott where they go to cool off from the sultry weather found in Salt River valley.

In Washington

Muggy weather, with heat prostrations and a general evacuation of all offices, are high lights of June in Washington, D. C., where the writer was stationed in 1918. River trips on the Potomac, street car rides and picnics in the Maryland woods are about the only relief afforded those who must stay with the ship of state. June bugs also are thick. When summer comes in Washington everyone leaves or wishes he had left and it is noteworthy that President Harding is following the precedent of his predecessors in touring the country.

One June never to be forgotten was spent in Bakersfield, Calif., where it gets warm and stays warm and you wear a coat to keep the sun from scorching your back. It is the month of motor trips to the mountains.

Rush to Fields

In Kansas City June sees the first rush to the harvest fields. The humidity in the atmosphere gives a person that sticky feeling of sticking around, for Colorado is the nearest resort and it is a long ways off. But the writer did get to Denver for the last few days of June and there a mile high one finds an invigorating atmosphere which might be termed ideal. The days are warm, the nights are cool and the Rocky mountain resorts, including Yellowstone park, beckon the tourist for a few days among the big game.

Another June we enjoyed in Salt Lake City, different from Denver and unusually warm. The Salt Lake and bathing resorts offer relief from the heat which is dry and not at all unpleasant. Cool winds from the north also bring summer showers of short duration.

In conclusion June may be rightfully dubbed the month of conventions, marriages and early vacations.

SUMMER PLAYING PROGRAM IS SET

All Children of City Are Invited to Take Part In Activities

Summer play for Glendale children has been planned in detail by the Glendale Community Service, directed by R. Ernest Tucker, who announced today that July 2 would mark the opening of the city's playgrounds. Co-operating with Mr. Tucker is the staff of the city schools.

There will be four play places during the summer, as follows:

On the high school grounds with a woman in charge from 1 p. m. to 8 p. m. and with a man in charge from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m.

At the Cerritos Avenue school a man in charge from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.

At the Central Avenue school a man in charge from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.

At the swimming pool in Patterson Avenue park, 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Invite All Children

In addition to the regular play activities there will be story telling at certain hours of the day. All children of the city are invited to attend the playgrounds. There will be special features for girls.

In connection with these announcements the Community Service has issued a leaflet on home playgrounds for the help of parents in answering the question, "What use is being made of the back yard?" The leaflet states, "Help your children to find themselves by providing suitable play space and equipment under home supervision. Let it not be said that Glendale in its marvelous home building program has neglected to make provision for small children in the back yard.

"Any home qualifying with six of the suggestions herein may enroll at the Community Service office. Recognition will be given the most practical home playground. No charge for registering. Play with your children.

There follows suggestions for home play equipment and a plot of home and equipment.

TODAY—Better Transit for Chicago; Plan General Consolidation; Subway Project Is Popular.

TOMORROW—News Notes from Russia, by Adele Parker, Moscow Correspondent.

By KENNETH HARRIS
For International News Service

CHICAGO, June 21.—"If"—that well-known obstructionist of many a well-laid plan—the City Council reports the Kelker plan of the traction extensions favorably—and the general consensus of opinion is that it will—then Chicago is due to make a huge outlay of money for betterments in its transportation system within the next decade. According to Major R. F. Kelker, local engineer, the project would require an expenditure of approximately $372,833,000 for completion.

The plan, upon which Major Kelker labored a year in perfecting, divides the construction work into two periods. The first period, Major Kelker explained, would be devoted largely to work which the city's growth has necessitated. This comprises, it was said, the building of 17.6 miles of subways, 37 miles of elevated roads and 153 miles of surface lines. This initial period of construction will require an expenditure of more than $217,000,000 or nearly two-thirds of the entire cost.

In submitting his report, Major Kelker recommended that:

First—All local transportation lines be consolidated, so as to permit unified transportation.

Second—Provisions be made for a single fare within the city limits, with transfer privileges between rapid transit and surface lines.

Third—Construction of subways be speedily accomplished.

Fourth—All surface lines be abolished within the busy "loop" zone, and either subway or elevated lines be utilized for loop transportation. (The loop district comprises an area of approximately one square mile, in the heart of Chicago).

The second period includes the remaining parts of the plan, and Major Kelker indicated that whatever changes may have been made in the general trend of population during these years will be observed, and construction will move forward in such a way as to care for these changes.

Chicagoans long have felt the necessity for the subway mode of transportation, Major Kelker asserted, and inasmuch as this method is the modern use of rapid urban transit their civic pride should not,—and he emphasized that it would not—let the massive undertaking fail.

The American public is riding in Pullman cars.

The "uppers" and "lowers" are being patronized to an unprecedented extent, railroad officials point out. The overnight traveler, who once coiled his weary self into a 4x2 seat, is stretching himself out nowadays and getting a real night's rest, it is stated.

The annual report of the Rock Island lines, filed here recently with the board of directors, revealed that Pullman coaches traveled 1,065,967 more miles in 1922 than 1921.

There was a time when a berth was considered a luxury to be enjoyed by only a few. Today nearly every traveler has money enough to sleep on a mattress when journeying at night, the report disclosed. The foregoing facts, Rock Island officials assert, are a barometer of nation-wide prosperity.

Billy Whisker

by Frances Trego Montgomery

"For mercy sakes, don't eat that!" cried Bill's new friend, when he started to eat the little flower by the roadside. "It is deadly poison. Should you eat that you would swell up and burst in a short time, which would not be a very pleasant death, I imagine. You don't eat everything you see down here in the way of leaves and flowers, as many of them are poisonous. And whatever you do, don't drink the water you see in the swamps or pools unless you wish to get malaria or yellow fever. Anyway you would not be likely to, for most of them have kerosene floating on top of the water to kill the mosquitoes."

Just then they came in sight of the hotel, and on the road leading to it they saw a long line of low ramshackle carriages, each drawn by a single horse, with the driver on a high seat in front, with two people on the seat behind. All of these carriages were filled with tourists who had just landed from a train which had brought them from Colon, the city at the Alantic end of the canal.

"Ever since there has been anything to see here," said the old goat, "people from all over the world have been coming by the hundreds to see this wonderful canal. If they come in hundreds to see it now, they will come in thousands upon thousands to see it when it is finished, for then they will be able to cross the isthmus in the same boat in which they sailed from New York, San Francisco or Liverpool, or wherever it might be, instead of having to take a train across, as they do now."

In a short time the two goats were on the summit of the mountain, walking around to get a view from all sides, while the old goat was pointing out the places of interest to Billy.

"There must be a grand view from that upper veranda," said Billy. "Think I will go up and see."

Billy heard a gasp at his side and, turning, saw the old goat was catching his breath in gasps. Billy's audacious proposal had taken his breath away! To think of a goat daring to come even as near the hotel as they were now had scared the old goat nearly stiff, but he did not wish to show the white feather, so had kept from letting Billy know his feelings. But no goat in his right senses would ever think of entering a hotel in any other place where there were people unless he wished to be killed or beaten to death. And the old fellow wheezed out in a frightened voice:

"Don't go! Don't go! They will chase you with chairs and break your back or, worse still, throw boiling water on you!"

"And what do you think I'll be doing all that time?" asked Billy. "Standing around and letting them do it? Not much! The first one that raised a chair to hit me would find himself sprawling on the floor."

(Tomorrow you'll see what a fine dinner Billy finally found.)

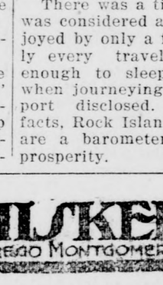
WILLIAM ATHERTON DU PUY

THE work of William Atherton Du Puy as American representative on the labor commission of the league of nations and his views on the future of the league, expressed since his return from abroad, has brought him into the limelight.



W. A. DU PUY

Du Puy's work on the commission had much to do with the standardization of wages, especially those of the seamen all over the world.

Du Puy is well known as a writer and journalist. Born in Palestine, Tex., January 6, 1876 he moved to Arizona and received his education in the public schools there and at the University of Arizona, where he spent two years. He entered the newspaper game after leaving school and worked as reporter in Houston, New Orleans, Vicksburg, St. Louis, Washington, New York and Philadelphia. Then he organized the Du Puy syndicate in Washington in 1907.

He originated and was the first editor of Sea Power, which began publication in 1910. He served as field secretary of the navy league of the United States in 1915-16.

When the war broke out he was made captain in the military intelligence division of the army. At the close of the war he became general manager of the Haskin newspaper service and a year later, in 1920, went with the Philadelphia Public Ledger syndicate.

He has written several books, some of them dealing with the progress of the United States. His home is now in Washington, D. C.

Hints for the Motorist

DON'T LET THE SPEEDOMETER GO "OFF DUTY"
Investigate Their Possibilities Before Buying New Parts

Speedometers seldom give trouble, but once in a while a chain breaks or becomes disconnected, the front axle gears strip or get out of mesh or possibly something goes wrong with the instrument itself. Some motorists of the careless, happy-go-lucky type, consider the speedometer as a rather unessential part of the equipment, rarely looking at it, either for indications of speed or mileage, and when it gives out seldom have it repaired. They then know nothing as to how far their cars have been driven, how long service their tires give or anything else about the exact service they are getting, and usually do not care. It is of no use to suggest to this class of drivers that they should keep their speedometers constantly in repair or to point out how essential the mileage record furnished by this faithful and accurate instrument is to the maintenance of their cars and in determining the cost of the service they are obtaining, but to the painstaking motorist who is concerned in giving his car the best possible care and who wishes to maintain a check upon his fuel and tire costs, the present appeal never to let the speedometer go out of commission can be made with confidence. What does one know as to the value one has gotten out of a particular tire unless the odometer readings when it was put on and when it failed are available and unless the speedometer was operative all the time the tire was in service? Without the mileage reading taken when the engine oil was last changed, how is the time for renewing it again to be determined? Some motorists wait until the oil gets so thin that its pressure hardly shows on the gage and pay the penalty for their negligence. The lubrication of all motor car parts is now prescribed on the mileage basis—universal joints each 500 to 1000 miles, transmission and rear axle each 2000 to 3000 miles and so forth—and it is only by means of the readings of a speedometer and one which is never permitted to remain inoperative that the correct times for these oiling and greasing operations can be known. As to gasoline and oil mileage, these are absolutely unknown quantities in the case of cars with broken down speedometer and the most wasteful conditions may prevail, for long periods, without their being realized. The motor car is a machine for producing miles of transportation and the speedometer is a device for measuring this product. It should always be kept "on the job."

HISSING SOUND FROM ENGINE

C. B. writes: My engine emits a hissing noise, which seems to come from one cylinder only, and which can be heard when running on all gears, but especially when accelerating. It seems to make no practical difference in the power. What is the cause of this, and how can I eliminate it?

Answer: This noise is probably from a gas leak in one of the cylinders. When the gas escapes it makes this hissing sound. The leak may be around a loose spark plug; out of a priming-cock which has a loose valve, or which is not screwed in tightly; around a valve-cap (if your engine has these); out of an exhaust manifold connection which has a defective gasket or some similar point. If you can locate the cylinder where this leak is, we think you can determine the exact point of escape by squirting oil around the various joints, and seeing where it bubbles when the engine is run.

KEEP GEARS IN

G. J. S. writes: One person advises me when driving down hill to place the gears in neutral and to shut off the gas completely, but I find that by following this procedure I have to go through all the operations required when starting the car from rest, and believe that it is a risky practice, especially if there is another car following closely behind. What do you think? Is it necessary to retard the spark completely when coasting?

Answer: We do not favor this procedure when coasting, and you are quite right in thinking that it is not a safe method. The chief objections are the difficulty of getting back into gear when the end of the grade is reached. The loss of braking power, due to the engine running free, and the extra wear on the brakes due to their being depended upon entirely for slowing down the car, instead of making use partly of the retarding effect of the engine. It makes little difference whether the spark is fully retarded or not when the throttle is entirely closed.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TOAD'S SONG

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" called a jolly little voice as the rabbit gentleman hopped down the road in front of his hollow stump bungalow one day. Mr. Longears turned around and saw Baby Bunty, the cute little rabbit girl, hurrying after him.

"What is it, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" panted Baby Bunty as she hopped closer to the rabbit gentleman, "excuse me for asking, but have you a penny in your pocket?"

"Why, yes, Baby Bunty, I have a penny," answered Mr. Longears, feeling in his pocket to make sure.

"Yes, I thought you had," went on Baby Bunty with a sigh. "You are a lot richer than I am. Uncle Wiggily, 'cause I haven't got even a half penny. Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" she suddenly cried, "If you have the penny why don't you buy yourself a little toy balloon that you blow up and it goes 'squawkie-awkie!' Why don't you?"

"Because I don't want a toy balloon, Baby Bunty," laughed Uncle Wiggily. And then, as he saw a sad look on the face of the little rabbit girl, he added: "But, maybe you want a balloon, Bunty?"

"Yes, I do, awful terrible much—I mean very much," she corrected herself. "But, of course, I musn't ask you for a penny and—oh, but I didn't really ask you for it—did I?" Baby Bunty wanted to know, as the rabbit gentleman put his paw in his pocket and took out a penny, which he gave her.

"No, you didn't ask me, Bunty. Hop along and buy your rubber balloon," said Mr. Longears, and Baby Bunty hopped. Uncle Wiggily also hopped along, hoping he might have an adventure, when, all of a sudden, as he was passing one corner of the Wibble-wobble duck pond the bunny gentleman heard a voice saying:

"Oh, how sad it is! I can never sing again. Oh, what a sadness!"

"Dear me. This is too bad!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "Who are you that can never sing again?" he called. "Are you Grandpa Croaker the Bull Frog?"

"No, I am Hopper the Toad," was the answer, "and I can never sing any more. No longer shall my trilling voice be heard on the edge of the pond at evening. Alas! Never again!"

"Why, I didn't know that you toads sang," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes," was the answer. "The piping, trilling noises you hear in the ponds at spring are made by toads and not by frogs, as many think."

"How do you toads sing?" asked the bunny uncle.

"Underneath our throat we have a piece of thin skin, like the rubber in a toy balloon," answered Hopper the Toad. "We puff this out by blowing our breath in it and the air makes the trilling song. Look—listen—you can see and hear."

Hopper pointed to another toad gentleman near by (for it is the gentlemen toads who sing), and Uncle Wiggily saw this toad puff out the skin under its chin and give forth a jolly song.

"That is something I never more can do," sadly croaked Hopper.

"Why can you never sing again?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because yesterday I hopped under a thorn bush," answered the toad. "One of the sharp thorns pierced and made a hole in my chin wind bag, and never more shall my voice be heard in song at the Wibblewobble pond, or any other. My singing days are over. As soon as I puff my bag of skin the air leaks out of the hole the thorn made."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose very fast.

"I have an idea!" he cried. "If we could close over that hole with something like your skin, could you then sing?" asked the bunny.

"Yes, but how can that be done?" sadly asked Mr. Hopper.

"I didn't know that you toads sang," said Uncle Wiggily.

"With a piece of rubber from a toy balloon!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Wait here for me!" Quickly the bunny hopped to the toy store and bought a little balloon, as Baby Bunty had done. Then, with some sticky juice from the rubber plant, Uncle Wiggily fastened a piece of the thin toy balloon over the hole in Mr. Hopper's windbag.

"Now try to sing," requested Mr. Longears. And lo and behold! When Mr. Hopper puffed out the skin beneath his chin like a bag the air remained in and he could trill as good a song as before.

"Oh joy! Oh happiness! Oh, trilly, illy, illy," sang the toad, and he was very glad and he and the other toads sang a chorus and thanked the bunny gentleman for what he had done. So this teaches us that we should always practice our piano lesson before the milkman comes. And if the pin cushion doesn't try to squeeze in between the sponge cake and the chocolate puddiing at the moving pictures and make them jump out of their seats, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily helping Mrs. Twistytail."

Poems That Live

PATIENT WITH THE LIVING

Sweet friend, when thou and I are gone
Beyond earth's weavy labor.
When small shall be our need of grace
From comrade or from neighbor,
Past all the strife, the toil, the care,
And done with all the sighing,
What tender ruth shall we have gained,
Alas, by simply dying!

Then lips too chary for their praise
Will tell our merits over,
And eyes too swift our faults to see
Shall no defect discover.
Then hands that would not lift a stone
Where stones were thick to cumber
Our steep hill path, will scatter flowers
Above our pillowed slumber.

Sweet friend, perchance both thou and I,
Ere love is past forgiving,
Should take the earnest lesson home—
Be patient with the living.

Today's repressed rebuke may save
Our blinding tears tomorrow;
Then patience' e'en when keenest edge
May whet a nameless sorrow.

'Tis easy to be gentle when
Death's silence shames our clamour,
And easy to discern the best
Through memory's mystic glamour;
But wise it were for thee and me,
Ere love is past forgiving,
To take the tender lesson home—
Be patient with the living.

—Margaret Sangster.

Two sisters—apparently all in all to each other—had lived together for many years. Then, when the one was ninety-eight and the other ninety-six, the elder died. The relative who undertook the task of breaking the painful news to the survivor feared the shock would be fatal to her. But the old lady bore up wonderfully.

"Ah, well," she replied, "now I suppose I shall be able to have my tea made as I like it."—Royal Magazine.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY Ad Schuster

Efficiency at Bat

Stuffy Wills, first baseman for the Stalwarts, wore a long face.

"It would take more than an efficiency expert," he said, referring to the job Nettie Caine held with the large Boswell Company, "to find out what is the matter with me. I'm telling you the eye docs have given up the job. I just can't judge the low ones, that's all, and all the pitchers on the circuit are wise. As a 300 hitter I'm dropping like the mercury in December. Pretty soon I'll drop right out of the league—me what used to be known as a fence buster!"

Nettie sensed the weight of misery behind the words and her heart went out to the big man.

"It's only a slump," she said encouragingly. "You'll come back strong." There was no response.

"I have not been out to see you play because I've been busy, but I'll be there tomorrow. I have an idea that there is a solution to every problem and maybe I can help." Stuffy grinned.

"What do you know about baseball?"

Nxet day Nettie sat in the stand armed with a business-like notebook. There may have been some who wondered at the attention she concentrated upon Stuffy whenever he was at bat, at the notes she took, and at her alert and serious expression, but no one had the courage or the impudence to ask. The girl was very much in earnest.

"I'm going to undertake this problem," she informed the ball player that evening over the telephone. "You are to drive out to my home tomorrow morning and ask no questions. Bring your favorite bat."

"The little girl of the figgers and system is going to show me how to land on the pill, is she?" Stuffy put it to himself as he steered his car through town. "What I need is efficiency, all right, but hitting the ball is a lot different from punching the clock."

Nettie, with a large basket on her arm, met him at the door. Together they drove to the country, the man taking his directions from his thoughtful companion. Close to a large field they stopped. Stuffy carried his bat and Nettie held to the basket.

In the center of the field the girl lifted the top of the basket and drew out a stick, on one end of which she had tacked the cover of a pill box, hollow side up.

"Stand straight, or just as you stand at the plate," she directed, while she shoved the pointed end of the stick in the ground until the box was just above the man's knee. Then she took from the basket one of a number of baseballs.

"They're cheap ones. I got them from the ten-cent store, so we won't have to chase them." She balanced the ball on the pill box cover, then eyed the whole critically.

"I'll put the balls here and you hit them. Take a full swing, just as you would if someone were pitching to you, and hit the ball squarely. Try to remember just where the bat goes, keep the form and the distance in mind so you can repeat. That's what you have to do, learn to hit that ball with your eyes shut."

"It will be a cinch, Nettie, but you know they don't stick them up in front of you in the major league. They have a most deceitful way of—"

"You do what I say!" Excitement made the girl peremptory. "Listen, I kept score on you yesterday. Fourteen low balls were pitched to you and you did not judge any of them right. Nine of the fourteen went over the plate just as close to your knee height as possible without being too low for a strike. It's my idea that better than half will be that height. You can tell when they are in or out, but your eye fails when they come down by your knees. Do you see my idea Set yourself into position to hit at that same height on all of the low ones. "Don't try to judge them."

For a half hour Stuffy knocked five-cent baseballs off the stick. He was surprised when he topped the first, lengthened his hold on the bat, and sent the rest soaring like golf balls over the field. Nettie made him mark the bat with a pencil.

"I'm not going out to see you play tomorrow," she said. "I want you to put your whole mind on this. It will be hard to avoid the temptation of trying to meet the ball."

It was difficult. Stuffy found himself eyeing the pitcher. He knew a low one was coming, braced himself and swung. Again he had missed, and he knew it was because his eyes had been fooled. Despite himself he had been tricked. Then he set himself to try Nettie's system. He would imagine a ball on a stick, knee high, and, no matter where the pitcher seemed to be throwing it, he would swing as he had swung the day before.

It is fortunate for Nettie's system and Stuffy's baseball career that the ball met the bat, reversed its direction and went for a three-bagger, for with the hit came confidence and the knowledge of a trick that would retrieve a reputation. In the eighth inning, when a hit was needed, Stuffy got another.

"They'll learn to quit pitching them low to me," he crowed to himself, "and then—oh, my!"

"Being as how I was afraid I was going to be released," Stuffy struggled with the words, "I was scared to ask you before, but, Nettie, what I need is an efficiency expert in the family."

"Of course you do," said the practical girl. "I've known that a long time."

REVEALS CHILDHOOD ROMANCE

Parents Of Pair Were Old Time Friends

Miss Emily O'Neill Davies and William H. Vanderbilt

The announced engagement of Miss Emily O'Neill Davies of New York to William H. Vanderbilt, heir to the vast millions left by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, brings to light a childhood romance. Miss Davies' father was an intimate friend of Alfred Vanderbilt's and died just three days after Vanderbilt went to his death on the Lusitania. Young Vanderbilt is 21 years old.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

DOES LUCK EXIST?

I hate to hear anyone say, "I am unlucky."

Not because I am one of those people who insist that there is no such thing as luck.

I'm not.

I know that some of the things that people call luck aren't luck, but simply the results of hard work, patience and intelligence.

But, on the other hand, I believe that there are certain things that happen to one absolutely without any fault or any virtue on one's own part, simply results of casual combinations of circumstances that might just as well have turned out some other way.

For instance, a friend of mine was driving her car up a hill when another car suddenly made a dash toward her, smashed into her car and ruined it, and broke her leg. The driver in the other car had lost control of his car because a bee had gotten insire the car, buzzed around his eyes, and stung him in the face.

Just Chance

Now surely one could not call that calamity anyone's fault. It was simply bad luck.

And good luck may come the same way.

Mrs. A. has some opera tickets which she finds, at the last minute, she cannot use. She calls up Mrs. B. Mrs. B. had just gone down street to do an errand. Then she calls Mrs. C. Mrs. C. also had started to go out and then had come back to get a sample for something she was going to match. This delayed her just long enough to receive the telephone call and accept the tickets with delight.

Good luck for her and bad luck for Mrs. B. No virtue on either part.

Now for the reason why I hate to hear anyone say, "I am unlucky."

Because, while I believe in good luck and bad luck, I don't believe anyone is consistently lucky or unlucky.

A Bad Picture

And I think it is a very bad thing to get an obsession on the idea of bad luck into one's mind. It suggests the wrong picture to the subconscious, and weakens one's courage.

You may have bad luck in one line and good luck in another. You may have good luck that you don't even know you are having. If a man changes his mind at the last minute and does not take a train which is afterwards wrecked he knows he has been lucky. But it must be that many similar lucky escapes come to us without our even knowing about them.

On the subject of chance Martin Luther once said: "You say you have a pair of dice that constantly throws twice six. You throw two, three, four, five, six and you take no notice of it. Then twice six times turns up twice and you think it proves your case."

His Star

It is the same way with the man who has got it into his head that he is unlucky. He thinks every piece of bad luck proves his case, and he takes no notice of the good luck that comes his way.

I know a man who is convinced that he was born under an unlucky star, because he has had some bad luck. He's under a star of bad omen all right, but he wasn't born there. He has put himself there by his own state of mind, which has come to be: "What's the use of trying? I'm born to be unlucky."

To anyone who believes in bad stars I call attention to the well-known case of Jacob and Esau, who presumably were born under the same star, and, because of their different characters, had very different careers.

If you want to get any obsession on the subject, get a good luck obsession. That can't do you any harm (unless you trust to luck to take the place of effort) and by the encouragement it gives your subconscious mind it may do you some good.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

SUMMER COMPLAINTS

Beauty specialists are apt to overlook one thing—methods to prevent the stings and bites of summer insects, and to cure the bites if one is unfortunate enough to encounter these little pests. No woman can be good looking with face and neck full of red lumps, or ankles bitten to double their size!

I know of some excellent preventives—quassia, starch, pepper and ammonia. If you can sprinkle pepper about the veranda where you sit, or on the lege of an open window, or around a picnic site, you'll suffer less from mosquitoes, flies and such invaders. But pepper isn't always practical to use.

Quassia is better. Buy the chips at a drug store. Put an ounce in a china vessel, pour on five pints of cold water, stir now and then and let it stand an hour. Sprinkle this around any camping place, or spray the rugs and cushions of your canoe first with this, then with ammonia. Stand a saucer of ammonia near the cakes or jam on an outdoor tea table if wasps are in season.

Cover bee or wasp stings with mud as soon as possible; treat later with ammonia. Rub ammonia into mosquito bites; it stings a bit for an instant, but it stops the eternal itching and takes down the swelling.

If there is a great deal of swelling (some bites are poisonous and all are disfiguring) apply fomentations of hot boracic. This solution is half an ounce of boracic acid powder to half a pint of water. Wads of cotton dipped in it while very hot, as hot as you can stand it, should be kept on the spot, and renewed whenever they grow cold.

Jack B., E. H., M. V. B., Bobby, C. G. S., M. R. K., A. B. S.—A formula covering this subject of developing the bust, or information on reduction when bust is too large, will be mailed to you if requested and a stamped, addressed envelope is included.

Doubtful—You need a stimulating hair tonic such as the one so often recommended in the chats for hair that is turning gray prematurely. I will be glad to mail the formula for this if you request it. This tonic, used two or three times a week, together with a daily massage of the scalp, should be all that is necessary for the hair's recovery.

E. M., C. M., Dolly—Nothing will stop freckles appearing so long as you have this tendency. A simple bleach applied frequently is better than using a caustic preparation, even for special occasions; and the least irritating are such things as vegetable and fruit juices, which come from cucumbers, lemons or tomatoes. Always follow up such applications by massaging a cream into the skin to counteract the effects of the acids.

Tomorrow—Cleansing Creams

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget to enclose the s. a. s. e. if you ask for an article.

Mrs. S.—You say your husband is way underweight, that he eats abnormally, simply loves desserts, candies and pastries; won't look at spinach or greens or milk in any form, and you are afraid he is impairing his health and he is already beginning to complain of sharp pains in his head. You want to know how he shall learn to like such things.

The only way he can learn to like them is to eat them. I fear, too, that his health will be impaired. He probably will get diabetes (if he hasn't it already) and a few other totally unnecessary diseases. Perhaps he might like them (I mean the vegetables) with a little cream sauce, or he may like raw greens chopped rather fine and served as a salad. He will learn to like them if he persists. He should have some milk, because milk is as good a food for adults as it is for children. Have you sent for the booklet on gaining weight? You may have it by observing the rules given above.

Mrs. E.—If your mother's blood pressure does not reduce when she reduces her weight and lives normally, we will have to presume that the condition is because of the hardening of the arteries and that nature needs to keep it at a high blood pressure in order to force the blood through the vessels. So it means a physiological need now. While the life insurance companies state that the adult blood pressure should be 100 plus one-half the age, there is no doubt that the blood pressure varies within a certain limit, and what might be a high blood pressure for one would not be for another. We have an article on this subject you may have (see the rules above).

Mrs. F.—Not all cases of those bitten by rabid (mad) dogs are affected, but if I were you I certainly would take no chances. Have your little boy take the Pasteur treatment.

There will be no doubt about your supporting your health department in their efforts to enforce the muzzling laws after this, will there?

Mrs. B.—After a burn or bruise it sometimes takes months for the normal color of the skin to reappear. Massage might help some.

Mrs. M.—You should have a urinalysis made of your daughter's urine and a thorough physical examination made by a competent physician, if you suspect she has diabetes. Is she an excessive candy eater? That may bring on diabetes in children (adults, too).

The new insulin treatment for diabetes, which is having such wonderful results, gives no promise of cure as yet. It simply supplies the secretion which the damaged pancreas cannot supply, and it has to be constantly given by injections which are more or less painful. The trade name that is used by the American manufacturers of the remedy is Illetin. It is only given out by the manufacturers to physicians who are recognized by their own profession to be experts in the care of diabetes. This precaution is necessary because it is a dangerous drug in incompetent hands. You can find out what physicians in your locality are handling it by getting in touch with your County Medical Association.

Diabetes can be prevented in many cases, and obviously that is the thing to do if possible. Jocelyn states that seventy-five per cent of his cases are very much overweight, so that prevention of overweight means a prevention of possible diabetes. Excess candy is especially pernicious.

Ladies' Crocheted Coat-Sweater—Size 36 to 38. Materials: Nine hanks of old-blue and one-half hank of white knitting worsted, one bone crochet hook No. 4.

With the blue yarn ch. 102 sts., 1 s. c., into second ch. from hook, yarn over, hook into next st., draw up loop, yarn over, draw through all the three loops on hook, thus making a slip double (sl. d.), 1 s. c. into next st., 1 sl. d. into next; repeat to end of row, ending with 1 s. c. into last st., 1 ch., turn.

Second Row: 1 s. c. over s. c., taking both sides of st., * 1 sl. d. over sl. d., taking back of st. only, 1 s. c. over next s. c., taking both sides of st.; repeat from * to the end of row, 1 ch., turn. Repeat second row throughout the work, being careful to keep to the pattern after each increase or decrease. When work measures six inches, decrease 1 st. at each end of work, every eighth row, until 93 sts. remain. Work on this length until work measures 20 inches, decrease 3 sts. at each end for armholes, now decrease 1 st. at end of every row till 81 sts. remain; work on this length till work measures 28 inches.

Front: On first 27 sts. work for right shoulder five rows, leaving rest of stitches for back of neck and left shoulder, 3 ch., turn, 1 s. c. into second ch. from hook, 1 sl. d. int next st., continue pattern on rest of row, 1 ch., turn, in this way increasing 2 sts. in every other row toward front eight times or till 16 sts. are added. Work eight rows even, then increase 1 st. in every row toward armhole till 20 rows are made. This finishes the armhole. Now keep work even till first narrowing on underarm seam is reached, increase 1 st. in every tenth row four times, and work even till underarm seam on front is same length as back. Work left front in same way, but starting the first row by counting back 27 sts. and reversing the increasing and decreasing.

Sleeve: Ch. 30 sts, work pattern 1 row, then increase 2 sts. at end of every row till you have 81 sts. across. Work six rows even. Then decrease 1 st. at each end in every fourth row till 65 sts. remain. Work even till sleeve measures 16 inches on seam. (Continued tomorrow.)

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years of age and a sophomore in high school. I have been going with a young man about my age. We were pretty good friends and we both seemed to think a lot of each other. At Christmas time he gave me a present, which I accepted as I would from any friend.

For some reason or other we do not go with each other, although we do speak. He goes with other girls. I have grown to actually hate him. Please advise me whether or not I should keep his present or return it. KINK.

Unless the present was a watch, or ring, or valuable piece of jewelry, I would advise you to forget about it. Try to forget all about the boy, because it is only harmful to you to fill your heart with hatred. It is not worth while to make yourself so miserable about a former sweetheart.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Mother bought me the loveliest seal brown satin charmeuse dress for my birthday. It is the most beautiful dress and I was so proud of it!

Last week I dropped some cherry cocktail candy on the front of the skirt. I thought the stain would be easily removed and so I took luke-warm water and tried to get it out. But the water stained as much as the candy and made large rings. When I saw how it looked I cried my eyes out, for it was expensive and mother was so pleased to present it to me. That hurt me the worst.

Mother told me to try gasoline, and I did. The gasoline made the spots somewhat dimmer, but they are still there and can easily be detected. When I used the gasoline I used a soft cloth to apply it. Did I do it any harm by using the gasoline?

Please help me. SNOOKY OOKUM.

You made your mistake when you applied the luke-warm water. Now the wise thing for you to do is to take the dress to a dry cleaner and explain the spot and ask if they can remove it. Often where the color is changed a professional cleaner is able to apply chemicals or dyes to restore the original color. You did not harm the dress by applying gasoline if it was a good quality. The spot should have been spread over a turkish towel and then rubbed with a soft cloth saturated in the gasoline.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen and am going with a boy about twenty-one years old. He also writes to and goes with another girl in town, but her parents do not approve of him. This makes me a little bit jealous. He has told me that he did not love a girl if she let him know she loved him. He acts indifferent to me when he is out in public, but when he is with me or in my home he is just as nice as any one else. Will you please tell me some way to make him love me more as I love him dearly? GERTIE.

Men very much prefer to do their own love making, and so the only thing for you to do is to let matters take their own course without trying to force more affection. If the young man cares for you, he will show it more and more. But if he does not care for you, you will soon discover that too. Love seems a very serious matter at your age, but you will find that when one love fails you will soon find yourself in love with someone else.

The most southerly glaciers in the United States once existed upon the slopes of Mt. San Bernardino and Mt. San Gorgonio. Mr. Fairbanks suggested that it might be well to set this region apart as a national park.

"The glaciers left great, huge masses of debris," he added. "In these the water collects which keeps alive in summer the flow of the Santa Ana river. There is direct relation between these glaciers and the prosperity of Southern California."

Start Suit to Test Validity of Bonds

SACRAMENTO, June 21.—To avert delay in the liquidation of warrants outstanding against the Sutter-Butte by-pass project number six, the state reclamation board yesterday authorized its attorney, Stephen W. Downey, to proceed at once with a suit to test the validity of the $8,000,000 bond issue which was voted several months ago by the land owners assessed, it was announced by counsel for the board.

While it will be impossible to secure an actual decision on the suit until the supreme court has passed on the pending suit to establish the validity of the assessment, members of the board said the preliminary steps could be taken so that as soon as the assessment validation suit was decided the attorney would have all details incidental to the second suit cleared up. Attorney Downey reported that the court would probably act on the assessment validation within sixty days.

TUJUNGA

START CLEANING YARDS AND LOTS

Property Owners Improving Looks of Residences All Over Town

The announcement, several days ago, in these columns, of a "Clean-Up" week that was to be announced later, has created considerable interest already among tenants and property owners of Tujunga. Some of the more ambitious have started it and their lots and yards are beginning to shine out of the debris and brush strewn community like the proverbial red nose at a prohibition party.

Others are following suit, some rather sheepishly, not being able to see their neighbors getting the drop on them, and, at the same time, not relishing the job of clearing brush and accumulated debris in addition to the regular day's work. For these there will be the satisfaction, when the week is announced later, of having the unpleasant task done and sitting back and watching the other fellow squirm under the lash of his conscience when he sees every lot but his own polished up to the point where it will not draw adverse criticism from newcomers, who form hasty opinions of the whole community by the first small section they see, which may be the section that was neglected in the hope that it would go unnoticed. No one wants Tujunga advertised as a slovenly town, therefore the appearance of mattocks and shovels and the disappearance of brush and unsightly refuse.

The date of the "Clean-Up" week will be announced this week, as soon as the Chamber of Commerce decides upon it and works out the details of the campaign, which is going to rage until every unsightly property is made presentable.

Enlarge Church

At the last meeting of the congregation of the Tujunga Community church held for the purpose of discussing the work of building the addition that is to be incorporated into the present church building, it was voted to start the work as soon as the details could be worked out. M. V. Hartranft and others discussed the various angles and J. A. Jenkins made the motion to proceed with the work with the least possible delay, which was carried. Details will be considered at a meeting in the near future.

Dr. Stotts, pastor of the Community church, will take for his subject next Sunday morning "Building for God," a sermon that should arouse interest in the building campaign. At the close of the sermon the congregation will vote on questions pertaining to building extensions. A special invitation has been issued to the community at large to attend this service.

The Men's Brotherhood of the church has called a special meeting for the evening of Friday, June 22, at the church for the purpose of attending to important business.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a food sale in the basement of the church on Saturday, June 23, and will serve luncheon during the noon hour in cafeteria style. The ladies of the society have won enviable reputations with their food sales and extra accommodations will be arranged to serve the crowd that is expected, from the indications of previous attendance at their luncheons.

At 9:45 Sunday morning Rev. C. E. Bodenhausen will take for his subject "The babe as the Scriptural sign of Christ's first coming and the king as the Scriptural sign of the second coming." This sermon will be delivered to the Men's Brotherhood and all men are invited to attend.

Snake Eats Canaries

Demonstrating the appetite of a snake in good foraging grounds, one of the chicken variety recently paid a visit to the home of Mrs. Sumner H. Adams' canary birds and wiped six of the happy family from existence and was in the pleasant attitude of proceeding with the pastime when Mr. Adams terminated the snake's career in time to save the father and two other birds who made their home in the cage.

The cage was hung by Mrs. Adams in some vines on her porch and when she returned it was just in time to see the mother of the flock disappearing down the throat of the snake, which gave ample and bulging evidence of having devoured five of the babies also.

Paul Perronet has been filming scenes of interest in and about Tujunga for the purpose of display at all the picture houses in the near future. The first of the pictures was made of the school children's parade several weeks ago, when they held their costume carnival. These scenes turned out well, and will be exhibited later at the Tujunga Valley Motion Picture theatre, before being assigned to other houses.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bloore recently celebrated their tin wedding anniversary with a dinner party at their home. The minister who had united them in marriage ten years ago, the Rev. C. C. Sinclair, of the Magnolia Avenue Christian church of Los Angeles, was among the guests, others including the parents of Mrs. Bloore, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randall, of Redondo Beach; Mrs. Bloore's sister, Mrs. Maude Haarer, and children, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Bloore's sister, Miss Caroline.

Many Brush Fires

An epidemic of brush fires kept the local fire wardens busy for several days, but they hope to get a rest now that the "Clean-Up" campaign is bringing out the owners, who are clearing their lots of inflammable refuse and brush.

A fire between Stevens Way and Monte Vista, near Summit avenue, was confined to a half block, and serious damage to nearby homes narrowly averted by the quick and thorough work of the wardens and volunteers. This menace can be almost entirely removed by removing the brush from the lots, which will also increase the attractiveness of the property and decrease the strain on the eyes that have to look at the unattractive sight.

First Lieutenant Edward E. James and wife were recent visitors to the home of his parents at 126 South Cedar street. Lieutenant James has been transferred from Fort Bragg to Honolulu and after the brief visit to his parents, sailed on the City of Los Angeles with his wife for his new post.

The Walker property at 205 North San Ysidro street has been sold to a Dr. Croke, who has converted the place into a sanitarium and rest home, with accommodations for several patients.

A party including Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cavolt picnicked at Monte Vista park Sunday. The other members of the party were R. K. Hamilton, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hamilton.

The petition for a kindergarten addition to the Tujunga school has been signed by thirty-one adherents and presented to the trustees. That body has not yet reported on the matter.

The opening of bids on the new school building will take place a week from Friday, on June 29. Plans and specifications are on file at the office of the president of the board on Sunset Boulevard for the benefit of contractors who desire to bid on the work.

AVOID THESE SYMPTOMS

"I was weak and nervous, had headaches all the time, and my back hurt so bad I could hardly stoop," writes Frank Richardson, Perry, Georgia. "Tried Foley Kidney Pills and got relief." Backache, rheumatic pains, tired feeling, dull headache, too frequent urination, discolored or strong odor are symptoms of Kidney and Bladder disorders and demand prompt treatment. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief. Refuse substitutes. EAGLE ROCK

BANK QUARTERS TO BE REBUILT

Security Trust & Savings of Eagle Rock Starts New Structure in July

The Eagle Rock branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank will move sixty feet eastward to the new Schumacher building, on Monday, July 2, which quarters they will occupy during the next ninety days, during the time their present structure at the northeast corner of Colorado boulevard and Central avenue is being torn down and replaced with a modern two-story brick building.

This announcement is made by Fred D. Biles, manager of the local branch, who states that the new structure will front fifty feet on Colorado and seventy-five feet on Central, with vault space running back sixty feet farther.

When the editice is completed it will be joined with the Schumacher building, according to Mr Biles and P. F. Schumacher, owner of the latter. The two structures will be thrown together and a flight of stairs will lead to the offices of both.

A design of the new bank building, as it will appear when completed, has been framed and hangs in the lobby of the present bank. It conforms to the architectural style of the Schumaker building and presents a very striking appearance.

Landmark Passes

The artistic little building on the corner of Colorado and Central soon to be vacated and razed, was erected thirteen years ago by the Eagle Rock bank, the architect being H. A. Reeve. For over a decade it was an outstanding landmark of the community it served. Now that it must give way to more imposing and roomier quarters, its necessary removal is looked upon with that regret which always favors long-standing landmarks.

Having outlined its usefulness, it is made obsolete by the steady growth of the community and those who have delighted in its beauty will be doubly pleased, it is felt, with the sightly appearance the corner will present when next fall the new home of Eagle Rock's Security Trust & Savings bank stands there.

Realtors to Dine

The Eagle Rock Realty Board are holding a banquet at the Masonic hall on Friday night, June 22, at 6:30 o'clock, and have invited all real estate dealers of the community to be present with their wives and friends. E. D. Sexton of Monrovia will address the assemblage, and there will be several musical numbers, according to J. B. Brown, W. R. Johnston, president of the board, and H. I. DeVol in charge of arrangements.

Frank Miller, "the singing evangelist," is holding services each afternoon at 3 o'clock and each night at 7:30 o'clock at the big tent on the lot at the corner of Castle and Stanley avenues. His work is said to be non-denominational. He has been an evangelist for thirty-five years and is noted for his chalk talks and for his work with children. He expects to be in Eagle Rock for two weeks.

Local Notes

The Eagle Rock fire department is making plans to build a dormitory on the rear of the city hall property, in order to provide proper quarters for the seven firemen on each shift. This plan will make it unnecessary to alter the auditorium, as originally planned.

When the new Los Angeles telephone directory comes out, on or about July 1, the names of many exchanges will be changed, as well as numbers. Lincoln numbers will be changed to Capitol, Wilshire to Drexel, Washington to Dunkirk, South to Humbolt, West to Beacon, and Pico to Metropolitan.

The Central school's annual, now out, is dedicated to E. E. Harwood by the graduating class, who are the publishers. It contains much data of school activities, including pictures of faculty and pupils of most grades. The work was done under the guidance of Mr. Compton.

Sponsored by the Women's Twentieth Century club, the movement to make Eagle Rock "the Dahlia City" is gaining headway.

"Every resident of the community should plant one or more dahlia bulbs," says Mrs. C. W. Young, chairman of the exhibit committee.

Numerous local organizations are offering prizes for the finest dahlias displayed at the Dahlia Show, which comes in October.

BURBANK

POSTPONE ACTION OVER CEMETERY

Burbank Trustees Discuss Proposed Ordinance But Delay Taking Vote

It was decided at the last meeting of the City Trustees to hold over for another week any action in the matter of the proposed cemetery in the northwest section of Burbank, pending the drafting by residents of that district of an ordinance that would not be illegal, if passed.

Although various angles of the cemetery matter consumed most of the session, the new plans for redistricting the city, submitted by the Zoning Commission, came in for some discussion, together with other details of business.

No decisive action on any important matter was taken at last night's session, reports F. S. Webster, city clerk.

Coming Events

There will be a benefit card party at the Masonic hall Friday night, June 22, under the auspices of the Eastern Star Sunshine Club, the proceeds to go toward the purchase of material for Orphans' Home clothes. The hostesses will be Mesdames Lawrence, Fitzsimmons, Fillbach, Lovejoy and Kahl. All Masons and Eastern Stars, with their friends, are invited to be present.

There will be a special choir service Sunday night, June 24, at the M. E. church, announces John R. Hoist, musical director. Besides several fine vocal and organ numbers, there will be three little violinists who are considered very talented—Thelma Dillon, Charlie Gene and Minnie Abers of Los Angeles. In addition, Mrs. Grace Lovejoy and Mr. Hoist will play a fantasia for organ and piano.

Lieut. Harry B. Watson, renowned Burbank aviator, will pilot one of the army planes in the June 25 exercises coincident with the dedication of the municipal landing field at Van Nuys. It is expected that there will be a squadron of from six to eight planes in the demonstration.

Pietro Romeo, H. L. Sinclair and H. B. Wolfe, prominent local Druids, are attending the state convention of their order at Gilroy. Mr. Romeo is a grand trustee of the state grand lodge.

Local Talent on Aair

Burbank people listened in on Sunday afternoon to six young musicians in whom many local people are personally interested. The concert was broadcasted from station KFI, Anthony's, Los Angeles, being arranged through the courtesy of Mrs. Kate Thimgan, chairman of the music committee of the Women's Club. The following program was given:

Violin solos: Cavatina, Roff; Song of India, N. Rimsky; Salute d'Amour, Lieb Esgruess—Hazel Myrna Wallace.

Violin solos: Madrigal, A. Simmonette; Traumeri, Schuman; Serenade, Schubert — Gertrude Thedaker.

Clarinet solos: Spring Song, Mendelssohn; Beneath Thy Window, Le Thiere—Elouise Fay Knox.

Piano solos: Pixies' Carnival, Brown; Bravura, Barbour—Ruth Jenkins.

Piano solos: Valcik, Mokrejs; Alt Vein, Godowsky—Alice Gratrix.

Group of songs: Lucile Fricke, Huntington Park.

Social and Personal

The needlework section of the Women's Club met Tuesday, June 19, with Mrs. Roach, 260 Palm avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Link have moved here from Glendale and are living in their new home on Valencia avenue at Fourth street. Mr. Link has been an invalid for about two years but is recovering and has fitted up a workshop in their home, which he will use for watch and clock repairing, at which he is expert.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pierce of Valencia avenue recently entertained Byron Carr, from Ottumwa, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Troupe of Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Dale have sold out their belongings and have left for their former home in Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jarvis, parents of Frank Jarvis, are living at 412 East San Fernando boudevard, having motored through from East Liverpool, Ohio. They are much impressed with Burbank and plan to make their home here.

SUNLAND

INDORSE SCHEME TO PLANT TREES

Highway From Sunland to Tujunga City Limits to Be Beautified

The regular meeting of the Sunland Chamber of Commerce, held Tuesday night, was largely devoted to routine business. A motion was made and carried, endorsing the plan of the Monte Vista Valley Improvement league to plant ornamental trees along the highway from Sunland to the eastern limits of Tujunga, and declaring the intention of the Chamber to co-operate with the league in this work.

A report was made by the committee appointed to present the petition to the supervisors which asked that the Rowley property across the road from Monte Vista park be purchased by the county and added to the park. The committee reported that they had received some encouragement, but that the supervisors had turned the matter over to the department of forestry. The decision of this department will be learned later.

The Methodist church and Sunday school of Pasadena held their annual picnic and outing at Monte Vista park Monday. About 600 attended this affair, which is always eagerly anticipated each year.

On Sunday the Barnes Music company of Los Angeles gave a picnic at the park for the employes of the company. They also had a large attendance to enjoy the outing.
